S.S.F. Delays Ban on Returnables for 90 Days

By BOB PETERSON

South San Francisco's controversial ordinance to ban nonreturnable bottles and cans last night was put on ice for at least another five months.

Councilmen in a 3-2 vote placed a moratorium on the effective date. The moratorium runs from July 1 to October 1. The first reading of the ordinance was waived.

Opposing the moratorium were Councilmen Frank Mammini and Warren Steinkamp.

Mammini said that when the council originally passed the ordinance they left a 90-day grace period for the proponents and opponents to get together to work out any possible alternative.

These factions apparently got together few times, and accomplished very little.

Mammini contended that the industry knew the ordinance was to go into effect July 1 and if they were truly concerned they would have worked toward a solution agreeable to all.

Industry representatives responded that they have given financial support to Community Pride, a series of recycling centers. The organization has one pickup point in South San Francisco, a total of 18 scheduled for the Bay area.

As far as the industry representatives were concerned the problem is one of litter and it is magnified by the habits of people, not because of manufacturing processes.

Mammini, adamant in his stand, pointed to the automobile emission standards as an example of the need to get to what he considers the source—the manufacturer.

He said car manufacturers continued to make vehicles that emitted too many hydrocarbons until forced by law to make changes. "If the problem (of too many bottles and cans) isn't created, people won't carry it littering) out," said Mammini.

Steinkamp said the moratorium was a step backward. "I don't think 30, 60, 90 or 200 days delay, will make any difference," he said. "The issue is clear-cut. It requires a show of leadership. I feel we must lead the way and do it now."

The fact the ordinance came up at all was a surprise to most in the audience. Although packing industry representatives were cut in force, the high school youths that spearheaded the drive to pass the ordinance

WAXED FLOORS were not appreciated by employes at Bluegate Candle Co. factory in Moss Beach yesterday because they had to clean up the mess. An estimated 8000 to 15,000 gallons of molten wax escaped through an open valve over the weekend, covering the factory floor and clogging a sewer drain pipe in the adjacent El Granada Mobile Home Resort. Employes shoveling the dried slabs are, left to right, Dolores Gilly of El Granada, Lidea Fowler of Moss Beach and Jerry Dougherty of Half Moon Bay. (Times Photo)

2 Suspects Arrested in Robberies

Quick police work last week resulted in the arrest of two suspects in connection with separate robberies in Daly City and San Bruno last week. One involved an exchange of gunshots.

Booked for the Daly City robbery was Willie R. Cook of 11 South Grant Avenue, San Mateo, arrested by San Francisco police.

Five counts of robbery were filed against Garry D. McCune, 21, of 950 Old Mission Road, South San Francisco, for the San Bruno holdup. He was arrested by South San Francisco police.

According to Daly City police, the Evergreen Market at 3999 Evergreen Avenue was hit at about 6:30 p.m. Police said the suspect entered the market, produced a blue steel automatic and said, "It's a holdup." He reached in the cash register for an undisclosed amount of cash.

When the suspect fled out of the store, police said the market operator, I. Misrahi, took a pistol he had and fired three shots. Police said the suspect returned two, and Misrahi fired again. Neither person was struck, and the bandit ducked around a corner and was out of sight.

However, police said witnesses saw him get into a car. They took the license number and notified police. The suspect was then arrested shortly thereafter by a San Francisco police unit as the suspect vehicle traveled along Plymouth Avenue.

In San Bruno, the Fotomat, 298 El Camino Real, was held up for the second time in two months, according to police.

Clerk Maria Padri, 20, told police the suspect approached at about 12:45 p.m. in a yellow rental truck, displayed a pistol and said he wanted "money."

Police said approximately $50 was placed in a paper bag. He left and an all points bulletin was issued.

San Bruno Budget Study Underway

SAN BRUNO Council members last week preliminarily reviewed a dozen departmental budget requests.

Only one department — accounting — showed an initial reduction in budget. It was down $821, due primarily to the fact it carries a $2,500 charge to a cable television account that it did not have last year.

A new position of account clerk, budgeted for $6,432, was not at this time considered by the council members. They did, however, favor creating a full-time meter reader position.

The city council budget was tentatively reduced $650 from original recommendations. Telephone expenditure classification was reduced $300. Last year $450 was spent. The supplies category was reduced $350. Last year, mainly due to the recall election photocopying needs, $800 was spent.

Council members tentatively agreed to the city clerk's recommended budget increase of $250 over the 1970-71 amount. The increased costs include $100 for reproduction of documents and $150 budgeted for meetings. A request for an additional employe, budgeted at $7,265, was not considered at this time.

Before they grant a requested salary increase of approximately 45 per cent, amounting to $186 a month, for the city treasurer, council members said they would like some justification.

The salary increase would put the city treasurer in a pay range of $497 to $606 a month. The part-time position presently pays $420 a month. Acting City Manager Leo Van Dusen said the city treasurer planned to have the matter placed on next year's municipal election ballot.

A $100 increase requested for meeting expenses by the city attorney also requires a justification. Council members said they also want an opinion from the city attorney of whether additional trial expenses above the $1,000 budgeted will be needed.

Council members agreed to leave the city manager's budgeted salary at $24,000. They said that although a new city manager may not be hired before September, part of the $24,000 may be necessary to pay travel and moving expenses.

The city hall maintenance account was reduced by $2,300 by cancelling a heat and air conditioner maintenance contract.

General increases of the personnel board of $1,173 were explained as necessary supplies, advertising, health exams and proctor service due to large numbers of persons applying for jobs.

The planning commission's special projects category jumped $8,000, to $13,500. Two $6,000 costs were to pay for a housing plan and an open space and conservation plan. Both were said to be mandatory elements of the general plan in the event the city desires to obtain any federal grants.

Council members said they want a detailed breakdown of the plans. Other estimated costs included printing, drafting and writing of the land use plan and a circulation plan by planning consultant Larry Wise.

Also discussed was the possibility of cancelling out on the $3,300 the city pays annually to the county for promotion from its hotel-motel tax funds. Council members temporarily postponed action on a proposal to obtain a full-time dog catcher, presently budgeted at $9,000.

The city's general insurance category doubled its $45,000 figure from last year. Van Dusen explained that he budgeted an additional $20,000 because of a $20,000 insurance premium increase the council received last year after that budget had been finalized.

The other additional $25,000 was explained as necessary to cover general increases heaped on cities, school districts and other public agencies because of "the radicalism of the day."

San Bruno also has everal

Cigarette Tax Suit Shifted to Sacramento

Court action on a suit by a South San Francisco man seeking to force the State Board of Equalization to collect state taxes on sample cigarettes sent to homes throughou the state has been transferred to Sacramento County Superior Court.

The suit, filed on behalf of Cliff Wells by San Mateo attorney Joseph W. Cotchett, originally was before Presiding Superior Judge Melvin E. Cohn in San Mateo County.

A motion for change of venue was made by attorneys for the State Board of Equalization on the basis that state taxes are collected in Sacramento.

Cotchett originally opposed the motion, but later stipulated to the change of venue, which has been approved by Judge Cohn.

The suit claims that the state neglected to collect some $500,000 in state tax on sample packages of Maryland 100's cigarettes sent to thousands of California households last year by American Tobacco Company.

It was noted in the suit that the packages bore the printed words, "applicable state tax paid."

Millbrae School Budget Down

First revision of the proposed preliminary budget was presented to the Millbrae School Distrist Board of Trustees on Monday at their meeting at the Chadbourne School annex.

The board also heard requests for salary and benefit increases by representatives of both the teachers and the classified employees. No action was taken on these requests.

The revised estimated total budget is $4,079,052, which is $72,257 less than last year's figure. First total estimated budget was $4,004,142, with a decrease of $147,167 over the previous year. Difference in the revised proposal is based on an anticipated 8 per cent increase in secured taxes and tax relief subventions of $64,910, and an increase of $10,000 in the estimated net beginning balance, which are offset by the same amount in expenditures. These include $62,041 for the addition of a new account for building reserve funds; an increase of $11,400 for sabbatical leave coverage; a $250 adjustment for intermediate teachers; a $977 increase in capital outlay; $500 increase in transportation of volunteer students; a decrease of $266 on the contract for audio visual supplies, and an $8 increase for psychological testing services.

Malcom Blum, head of the mathematics dept. at Taylor School and chairman of the Millbrae Education Association's Salary Committee, gave the board a proposal of a 7 per cent salary increase, which would boost starting salaries from $7,535 to $8,062. The teachers are also requesting an increase in health and life insurance, with the inclusion of dependents in the health plan, and two days per year of leave for personal business.

In addition to the budget, a report of the district's human relations activities since last September is also scheduled.

Personnel Hiring Freeze Sought

A moratorium on the hiring of county government personnel was called for today by Chairman James V. Fitzgerald of the County Board of Supervisors.

Fitzgerald suggested that all unfilled positions be held open for other county employes who may be dismissed from their present jobs for economy reasons.

Notices were to go out this week to 51 employes of the National Health Division informing them that they will be the ones to go if a threatened economy move is carried out. Unless cut-backs in state contributions to the mental health program are restored or replaced, the dismissals will occur, according to present orders of the Board of Supervisors. The mental health program will be sharply curtailed throughout the county if the cuts go through, according to division officials.

"I would like to suggest," Fitzgerald said today in a memo to County Manager M. D. Tarshes, "that there be a moratorium on any hiring of any personnel without the specific approval of the Board of Supervisors, even though this personnel may be budgeted.

"I feel we have an obligation to those employes who have worked for us, and it would certainly be in the best interests of the county, to have other positions available in the event of the cutbacks so that our own employes do not have to be discharged."

Of 4,248 regular civil service positions, less than 4,000 are filled.

Flight Award to Skyline Students

Students from Skyline College and College of San Mateo won honors this weekend in the first National Intercollegiate Fly-in and Conference ever held west of the Rockies.

Students of Aeronautics Instructor George Sachen of Skyline College tied with San Jose State College for overall team championship, and won a special "first timer" award for the school which does best in its first competition during the fly-in.

Sponsored by the National Intercollegiate Flying Association, the 23rd annual contest and conference was held at San Jose State College's aeronautics department, at San Jose's Municipal Airport.

First place team championship went to Oklahoma State university, and second place went to Parks College of St. Louis University.

Daniel Bogdan of Skyline College won first place in making power-off precision landings, and Ron Oshima of College of San Mateo won first place in the pre-flight inspection contest.

The Loening trophy, presented by Grover Loening, for the "best collegiate flying club in the nation," went to San Jose State College's flying group.

Competitors came from 40 collegiate flying clubs, representing schools from as far as Miami, Florida,and Ottowa, Canada. Twelve west coast schools entered the competition for the first time.

Bruno School Chief Resigns

San Bruno Park School District has a new superintendent, replacing the recently appointed Dr. John F. Clark of the Redding Elementary School District.

He is William Jennings, 48, presently associate superintendent of business and personnel with the San Bruno district.

Trustees called a special session last night to make the announcement that Clark, appointed April 26, felt "a moral need" to remain in Redding.

Trustee Mrs Margaret Kozkowski explained that Clark is deeply involved in pushing a June tax override issue for the Redding schools. She said that if the election fails Redding will be in bad shape, and that Clark felt he had a commitment to remain and fight for its passage.

The 46-year-old educator was scheduled to replace retiring superintendent George Lawry on July 1.

As of that date Jennings will pick up the pace instead.

Jennings began with the San Bruno school district as a teacher at Northbrae School in 1949, moving to Parkside School in 1954. He was appointed teaching vice principal of that school in 1956 and named principal in 1957.

Millbrae Youth Week Features Games, Parade

A full week of varied and interesting activities is slated for this year's twelfth annual observance of Millbrae Youth Week, today through Saturday, sponsored by the Millbrae Lions Club, according to Earle C. Call, Lion president and Jerry Coehn, general chairman.

As a prelude to Youth Week, an essay contest on the subject "The Importance of Religion to Me" is being conducted by Chairman Clarence Larson.

An art show featuring exhibits by Millbrae elementary and intermediate school children on display at the Millbrae City Library and in local bank lobbies will run the entire week under the guidance of Chairman Joe Bronzini.

Last night, Turtle races for youngsters were held in the parking lot across from the City Library under the direction of Turtle Master Earle Balin.

Tonight features the annual grudge softball games pitting senior boys and girls of Capuchino High against their worthy opponents from Mills High. Both a boys' game and a girls' game will be played at Lions Field, Laurel Avenue at Ludeman Lane, starting at 6 p.m. with Chairman Jack Stirling in charge.

Wednesday marks the day when the youth of Millbrae have the opportunity to witness local government in action with selected students from Mills and Capuchino High Schools serving in various governmental posts.

After spending the day with their official municipal counterparts, the youthful officials will end their term in office with a mock session of the City Council in the Council Chambers at 8 p.m. Former Mayors Charles Yetter and Lew Grasberger are co-chairmen for this activity.

On Thursday evening the Millbrae Lions Club will host its annual Ladies' night dinner meeting at Crystal Springs Golf Club. Guests of honor will be Misses Michel Funk and Martha Borders, Youth Queens from Mills and Capuchino High respectively, who will be appropriately vested with their crowns officially signifying their selecton.

Entertainment for the evening will be provided by talented drama and music students from Capuchino High with arrangements being made by Co-chairmen Bill Bissell and Joe Geller.

On Friday, between the hours of 4:30 and 6 p.m. the teen-age members of the Leo Club will host an afternoon of fun and games for children between the ages of 8 and 12 at the Recreation Center Green with Chairman Mike Moresco in charge.

On Saturday morning the Youth Parade, under the direction of Chairman Ray Slate, will form up at the lower field of Mills High School at 9:30 a.m.

Starting at 10 a.m. the route of the parade will proceed north on Magnolia to Chadbourne, turn east to Broadway, continue down Broadway to Meadow Glen, turn left to Magnolia and left again to Richmond Drive, west on Richmond Drive to Lincoln Circle, thence along Lincoln Circle through Millbrae Recreation Center parking lot to the reviewing stand on the green.

The parade will feature among its many participants the marching bands from seven high schools — Capuchino, Mills, Crestmoor, El Camino, Jefferson, Westmoor and Monte Vista (Sunnyvale), the St. Mary's and Conquistadors Drum and Bugle Corps, and Serra High School Jazz Band, floats, Millbrae Youth League baseball teams and many other youth groups and organizations.

Following the usual post parade ceremonies and presentation of awards, an extra added feature of this year's festivities will be the long-awaited dedication of the new tot play area at the Recreaton Center, another of the many civic contributions of the Millbrae Lions Club.

A refreshment stand will be set up in the vicinity of the reviewing stand where hot dogs, cold drinks and other goodies can be purchased to satisfy the palate.

On Saturday afternoon a full schedule of Millbrae Youth League baseball games will be played on Taylor and Lions Fields.

Climaxing Millbrae Youth Week this year will be the glamorous Miss Millbrae Pageant Saturday night, at 7:30 p.m. in Capuchino High School Auditorium. Sponsored by the Millbrae Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of Chips Mauer, the pageant will again be emceed by radio personality Tom Campbell.

Colma Creek Floods Bring Major Lawsuits

Lawsuits seeking nearly $14 million damages as the result of flooding of Colma Creek in South San Francisco late last year were filed on Monday in San Mateo County Superior Court.

A total of 12 plaintiffs name 25 defendants, including the county, the San Mateo County Flood Control District, the Westborough Water District, the State of California and the city of South San Francisco, as well as a number of developers, contractors and real estate firms, in the suit filed by South San Francisco Attorney Angelo J. Scampini.

According to the lengthy complaints, the defendants are responsible in one way or another for land filling conditions which resulted in considerable flooding from Colma Creek between last November 28 and December 1.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Glavia, Mr. and Mrs. Marie Galeotti and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Schenone, seeking a total of $200,000 damages; Mazzanti Carnations, Inc., asking a total of $650,000; A. W. Sorich Bucket Co, Mobile Catering Service, Rick's Auto Body, Superior Aluminum Body, R. L. M. Co. and L&B Co., asking a total of $225,000; George Uccelli Co., asking $200,000, and El Camino Golf Club, Inc., seeking $200,000.

In another, but unrelated suit, South San Francisco attorney Antonio Gaudio has filed suit on behalf of David and Alvin Arata against the city of South San Francisco seeking $36,000 damages on the allegation that the city has undertaken repeated annual dredging of Colma Creek and dumped mud and debris on the plaintiff's property, depriving them of use of the land.

Crash Kills S.F. Woman

Florence Esther Trone, 32, of 3863 Twenty-sixth Street, San Francisco, was found dead in a ditch beside Old Bayshore Highway in Brisbane at 7:30 a.m. yesterday.

Coroner Paul B. Jensen said her sports car left the roadway and overturned, throwing her into the ditch.

The body was found by Brisbane Police Officer John Santero on routine patrol.

Jensen said it appeared she had been dead at least eight hours.

Freeway Extension, Access Urged in S.M.

The need for freeway access and extension focussed attention of San Mateo city councilmen in a recent meeting with Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan.

The city, it was agreed, will formally request an outlet from Bayshore freeway into the Nineteenth Avenue Shopping Center.

Mayor John Condon was instructed to send letters to Ryan and the state division of highways.

Ryan promised to work for the outlet. It could be located north or south of Sixteenth Avenue, the council said. The Sixteenth Avenue off-ramp had been closed several years ago at insistence of residents. Highway officials have opposed another opening.

Councilmen said increased congestion and development of the city and the commercial area with the location of the Royal Coach Inn are contributing factors to the need for a relocated outlet.

They asked the assemblyman to push for extension of the Nineteenth Avenue Freeway beyond its present terminus at Norfolk Street to the coast.

Ryan suggested the council seek support of Assemblyman Dixon Arnett and Senator Arlen Gregorio.

Mayor John Condon asked Assemblyman Ryan to help spur an earlier priority for the westward extension of Nineteenth Avenue Freeway to the coast. He said the present road is congested not only daily but on weekends when holiday-seekers go to the coast.

Councilman Floyd Welch said that the future use of Ox Mountain as a countywide disposal site accelerated the need for the freeway extension.

Councilman John Murray said the council had asked the county board of supervisors to earmark a sum from its gas tax funds to contribute to the project. Money in hand would help enlist highway department cooperation, it was agreed.

Assemblyman Ryan said he has long pushed for lateral connections across San Mateo County, to serve needs of local residents.

He said the most crucial highway needs now focus on connecting a lateral freeway to Pacifica to move thousands of commuters to airport jobs and other places of employment on the bayside.

He was critical of so-called conservationists who belatedly set up a hue and cry against freeways when they have failed to oppose developments promoting the need as on on the coastside.

Pacifica is a large city, he said. No conservationists opposed the Henry Doelger residential tract developments there initially. Construction of homes has prompted need for good road connections.

He cited Foster City as another example of a development of land which could have been kept as open space, but no one criticized the project at the time.

Drug Arrest at Airport

A young man who allegedly used his International Airport shoe shine stand as a front for a flourishing drug business was arrested last week.

Booked at county jail for possession, and possession for sale, of dangerous and restricted drugs was Johnny E. Payton, 19, of San Francisco.

Also arrested and booked for possession was James E. Dison, 20-year-old Army private from Montgomery, Alabama who, arresting officers said, apparently purchased some barbiturate capsules from Payton.

Deputy Sheriff Michael Preston said Payton had been seen approaching many service men.

Last night, Preston reported, Airport Security Officer Pete Gamino, in civilian clothes, saw Payton and Dison enter a men's room in the Central Terminal and go into an enclosure and lock the door. He stopped them when they emerged and took them to the sheriff's substation.

Preston said capsules were found in the possession of both men, as well as on the floor of the elevator they rode to the substation. Payton had $600 in his possession, the deputy reported. Several new $50 bills were found in Dison's possession, he said. Preston noted that the serial numbers of the bills were consecutive with some $50 bills found on Payton.

large lawsuits pending. One involves an accident at the city's swimming pool. Another involves a claim of "fradulent" death in the city's jail.

Council members approved an additional $7,000 budgeted toward next year's municipal election.

The civil defense budget went up to reflect the salary of coordinator Don Allen, hired after last year's budget was approved. Also budgeted for this department was $2,300 for new equipment. This includes a radio net to tie the fire, police and public works departments into one county network.

Up $15,000 from last year, the city's sanitation department budget includes an estimated eight per cent increase in power cost, salary increases and reserves to meet more stringent treatment plant requirements.

Terragno to Deputy Chief

South San Francisco Police Captain August Terragno Monday night was appointed Assistant Chief of Police by the city councilmen.

The appointment was granted as a particular honor to the long-time policeman and did not formally create the position of assistant chief.

Los Siete Not in Court

No member of Los Siete was in San Mateo County Superior Court yesterday for a scheduled pre-trial conference on charges of armed robbery and auto theft.

Judge W. Howard Hartley ordered forfeiture of $6,250 bail each on four of the defendants and issuance of bench warrants carrying $12,500 bail each.

Attorneys for Gary Lescallet and Danilo Melendez reported that their clients were in custody in San Francisco and unable to appear for the conference. (Lescallet was shot and wounded and Melendez arrested by San Francisco police April 23 in a liquor store holdup.)

Judge Hartley did not order forfeiture of bail on Lescallet and Melendez, but did direct that Melendez appear May 6 at 9 a.m. in San Mateo County Superior Court.

Bench warrants were issued for Rodolfo and Jose Martinez, Nelson Rodrigues and Jose Rios.

All of the Los Siete are scheduled to go to trial May 10 on charges of robbing a Redwood City couple at gunpoint at Pescadero Beach May 6, 1969, and taking the couple's car.

The incident occurred five days after the murder of San Francisco Policeman Joseph Brodnik, whom the Los Siete were accused of murdering and later acquitted by a Superior Court jury in San Francisco.

Free Trash Pickup in Daly City

Daly City-Colma area residents are being offered free trash and refuse dumping, May 8-16.

The Daly City Scavenger Company is opening up its disposal area at the south end of Skyline Drive on the coast, from 6:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., daily for the free use of all Daly City, Broadmoor, Garden Village and Sterling Park residents.

Proof of residence may be required at the dumpsite, where an attendant will direct dumpers to designated areas.

had to be contacted by telephone midway through the meeting. They were in Mill Valley, attempting to urge that city to pass a similar ordinance.

City Manager Gale Dreisbach said that because of the original effective date of the ordinance the first reading was necessary. He said the reason the matter was not on the agenda was because he had just become aware of it Monday morning. Calls then went out to those directly concerned.

Fontana Says He'll Stay on Junior College Board

Elio Fontana, recently defeated in a bid to remain on the San Mateo Junior College District Board of Trustees, said Wednesday night that he would not be a "lame duck" trustee but that he would not give up his seat on the board until the specified time for him to step down

He is scheduled to retire from the post on July 1, the end of the official school year.

Fontana, the only North County representative on the board, lost in the recent board election to San Mateo Atty. James Tormey.

Speaking at the regular meeting of the board which was held at Skyline College, San Bruno, Fontana told the audience that, "I thought I brought some balance to the board. I don't plan to be a lame duck trustee. There is a lot of work left to be done."

Among the critical matters to be handled before Fontana steps down is that of cutting back administrative costs and, perhaps, considering administrative reorganization.

Tormey was one of the most outspoken critics of the board's handling of the district's affairs during the election campaign and is known to be an advocate of reorganization rather than mere cutbacks.

Fontana, on the other hand, has appeared to be more willing to consider cutbacks.

There had been some speculation that Fontana might relinquish his seat on the five-member board in order to allow Tormey to come in early to make his presence felt during the crucial weeks ahead.

That, apparently, is not to be.

"I still have two months to go on this board," Fontana emphasized.

St. Mary's Dedication Wednesday

The dedication of the new St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco will be held at 4 p.m. this coming Wednesday.

Cardinal James McIntyre of Los Angeles will preside over the 1½ hours of ceremony. The Rev. Luigi Raimondi, the Apostolic Delegate to the United States, will officiate at the concelebrated dedication mass.

The preacher will be Archbishop Timothy Manning of Los Angeles. The University of California, Berkeley, Chorus will sing during the service.

In an event related to the dedication, a group of priests dedicated to the work of Cesar Chavez have announced they will hand out literature in front of the new Cathedral which decries the Catholic Church's alleged practice of building physical structures at the expense of more human needs.

Daly City Story Featured on Radio

"The Daly City Story," portraying that community's nostalgic past and its present status as a sparkling suburb of San Francisco, was narrated Monday by Carter B. Smith during a full-hour special on KSFO.

In words and music from 1 to 2 p.m. the disc jockey told history of Daly City, of its transformation from a rancho and vegetable patch to its position today as a bustling city of homes, fine schools and modern shopping centers.

Recounted for the pleasure of today's residents of Daly City were vignettes on long-forgotten events which shaped the city's development from a crossroads once tread by the padres and soldiers of Spain, to be followed by wagon trains and carriages traveling between San Jose and Yerba Buena, and then flowering into a town turned into a city when the earthquake and flames of San Francisco drove masses of homeless people south.

Followers of sports events learned that Daly City was noted in the early part of the century for numerous ring battles, featuring Jack Johnson, the black boxer who advanced from his local string of "KO's" to become world heavyweight champion. Other sport figures identified with Daly City were "Sunny Jim" Coffroth who managed most of the ring battles, and "Squire" John Marchbanks, owner of Tanforan Race Track.

Sponsor of the KSFO special salute to Daly City was Colonial Savings and Loan Association, one of whose seven Bay Area branches is located at 7070 Mission Street in Daly City.

BART Extension Study

San Francisco Airport Access Project (SFAAP) board members last week authorized a cost estimate to extend the BARTD line to the southern boundary of San Mateo County.

Board members also approved a staff request to allow detailed development of plans and cost estimates for both a subway and a feeder scheme to the airport, from a San Bruno station at Tanforan Shopping Center. Final selection would be made from one of the two.

Approving the requests necessitated the transfer of $20,000, but meant no change to the total project budget, according to Project Director Larry Dahms.

Board members attending the meeting at Daly City City Hall were told the project is proceeding on schedule.

Although subject to review at a later time, board members agreed to a South San Francisco request to extend the proposed Chestnut Avenue subway station 800 feet north.

This change, requested so as to clear the area where the Kaiser Foundation is building a hospital complex, is estimated to increase the line segment cost by approximately $2 million.

Board member R. B. Stokes immediately called for further studies of a possible alternate solution, costing lees.

Another revision receiving approval is to modify the line in the vicinity of Spruce Avenue by making it an open cut from the subway station south of Orange Avenue to the San Bruno border, making it flatter and wider. The change is estimated to reduce the line segment cost by approximately $1 million.

As of this time, the board agreed with staff position that the possible station location for further southerly movement would be at or very near Millbrae Avenue. A suggestion to place it near Trousdale Drive, Burlingame, was ruled out.

A brief report was made of yard locations, which all but ruled out Millbrae as one alternate, and posed Burlingame as a possibility.

Board members were told a proposed yard site located partially on airport property and partially in Millbrae brought strong objection from residents of Millbrae's Marina Vista community residents.

The staff offered as a way to quell these objections the construction of an earthen bank between the residential area and the yard, which appears also unacceptable.

The staff, according to Dahms, is now awaiting response from Burlingame. The proposed yard there would be along the Southern Pacific tracks, approximately paralleling the 1600 block of Rollins Road.

THE Listening POST by

Lyle Arnold & Alex Florea

In recent weeks we have discussed the five basic types of hearing aids: Body, Bone-conduction, Optic, Behind-the-ear, and All-in-ear. Each has its special applications, advantages and in some cases, disadvantages.

Among these five types there are also five basic circuits, each with 12 responses, making a total of 60 choices. We can also select from hundreds of different models produced by all the leading manufacturers, or prepare specifications for a custom-built instrument, if necessary.

You can readily see how much skill is required of an ethical otometrist to assure your satisfaction. But just remember this — whatever hearing problem you or yours may have, we probably have the answer.

WE OFFER YOU:

D.C. Street Project Wins Despite Protest

County supervisors gave the green light to a $160,000 street improvement project in the Daly City-Colma area despite the protests of a number of property owners.

The project, talked about since 1959, provides for widening Eighty-seventh Street between Washington Street and Sullivan Avenue, constructing curbs, gutters and sidewalks along that stretch, installing signals at Washington and Park Plaza Drive, and resurfacing Eighty-seventh between Washington and White Street.

Property owners will be assessed for $21,074 of the cost, with the county paying the remainder on the basis of the street's importance as a major thoroughfare.

Supervisor Robert St. Clair voted against the project because plans, although providing for widening to a four-lane width, call only for two-lane striping until four lanes are deemed necessary. He said four lanes are needed now to relieve traffic congestion. The board asked the county staff to coordinate planning for eventual four-lane use with Daly City officials.

Attorney Herbert McGuire, representing the Broadmoor Property Owners Association argued in vain for a postponement. He said residents of the area were confused about the project and concerned for the safety of children.

Joe Vilas, association president, called the project "four lanes from nowhere to nowhere." Bill Daniels, representing the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, complained that costs are not being fairly assessed and insisted that the widening will generate more traffic.

A letter from the Garden Village School P-TA Executive Board also pdotested the action.

Millbrae Group Studies Latin American Problems

Members of the Millbrae Methodist Church are conducting a study of Latin American problems.

The hope, according to a church spokesman, is to find ways to attain greater understanding of what ails that area and to try to find out what this country ought to do about it.

The study series began in mid-April and will continue through May 23. The sessions are held each Sunday at 10:30 a.m. at the church's Fellowship Hall.

This Sunday, Dr. William Hohenthal, a professor of anthropology from San Francisco State College, will speak.

Dr. Hohenthal lived for many years in Brazil, both in the cities where he attended school and in the interior where he studied five indigenous Indian tribes in depth.

On Thursday the Rev. Robert Schlager from Palo Alto will speak on the revolution in the churches of Latin America at the luncheon meeting of the Women's Society. Rev. Schlager was pastor and District Superintendent in Argentina for 6 years.

On May 9 the speaker will be Mrs. David (JoAnn) Aviel of San Mateo who is assistant professor of international relations at San Francisco State and spent a year with the Peace Corps under the Ministry of Education in Costa Rica.

On May 16 the speaker will be Dr. Sandra Powell, Acting Chairman of the Department of Political Science at San Francisco State. Miss Powell spent three months living in the "barriadas" (slums) of Lima, Peru and two periods of five and three months in Santiago, Chile, where she studied the political change in the Chilean electorate.

The series will close with a panel of Latin American Students who will tell how they feel about various forms of U.S. involvement in their countries.

All of these sessions are open to the public.

South S.F. Will Fight Water Unit

South San Francisco City Atty. John Noonan yesterday told the councilmen he was "convinced we (the city) have a firm defense" in the suit recently filed by the Water Quality Control Board.

Noonan outlined the steps he intended to follow in answering the suit on May 21. He said he would oppose a motion for a change of venue to Alameda County, headquarters of the Water Quality Control Board.

According to Noonan, a trial date will be set after he has filed his reply on May 21.

Noonan contended that if the situation at the dump site were as bad as the WQCB painted it, the WQCB could have it abated within ten days. He hinted also that a cross claim suit may be a possibility.

The city attorney has consistently stated that there is no longer any pollution. "Some interesting facts have developed that weren't available when the panic button was first pushed," said Noonan.

He was referring to soils analysis which have indicated there has been no pollution, and also have supposedly shown that the site "is more stable than the mud beneath it."

Noonan had praise for the efforts of the city scavenger company and contractor Buzz Haskins in their attempts to meet Water Quality Control Board demands.

"We have moved as expeditiously as we could," said Noonan. "Many factors must be taken into account in this situation, such as the time and economics that are involved. It is not an open and shut case," said Noonan.

USAF 1ST LT. WILLARD C. PETERSON, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Peterson of 1130 Glenview Drive, San Bruno is on duty at Cam Ranh Bay Air Base, Vietnam.

New Planner in S.S.F.

South San Francisco councilmen last night appointed a new planning commissioner, and a new member of the library board.

Contractor William Botieff became the city's planning commissioner. He replaces Frank Rosati, who resigned the post.

Named to the library board, replacing Mrs. Lenore Varni, who died recently, is Mrs. Charlotte Dillon.

Botieff, 40, of 400 Dianne Court, was selected above five other applicants. Mrs. Dillon, 51, of 28 Arlington Drive, was the choice over one other applicant.

Class Reunion Slated June 19

The Brentwood Lodge in South San Francisco will be the setting June 19 for the fifth year reunion of Crestmoor High School 1966 graduates. Cocktails at 6 p.m. will precede the dinner and dancing which will start at 7:30 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Virginia Cook Dey or Lori Baughn of San Bruno.

Applications Sought for Planner

San Brunans interested in a position on the city's planning commission may submit applications to the city clerk's office.

Mayor Maurice Hamilton said three terms are scheduled to expire April 30.

Those holding the offices — Robert Tonnesan, James Hensel Jr., and Girvin Whitney — will be asked if they desire to retain their seats. For all to do so may require a policy change.

Tonnesen was originally appointed in August of 1963, Hensel in June of 1960 and Whitney in January of 1968.

U.S. Court Not Place for Dress Code Ruling–Burke

Daniel Davis, a South San Francisco student, recently failed in his Federal court challenge of the El Camino High School dress code provision that prohibits his long hair.

Judge Lloyd Burke said in San Francisco that the dispute involves educational issues best left to the California courts.

He denied a request for a preliminary injunction on the 16-year-old's behalf that would have kept school officials from enforcing hair-length regulations.

Davis had challenged the long-hair prohibition on grounds that it was in conflict with the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The action charged the school with being arbitrary, discriminatory and capricious and that Davis' fundamental right to liberty, free expression and privacy was being violated.

The jurist did not make specific findings but commented, "The health and safety arguments advanced by school officials in support of the dress code appear to us to be based on sound logic and years of distinguished educational experience."

Candidate Trial Delay

The jury trial of Michael Sweeney, an unsuccessful candidate for the South San Francisco Unified School District, on trespassing charges was delayed a week.

Sweeney, 23, will appear in the Northern Judicial District Court at 10 a.m., today.

Sweeney allegedly refused to leave the El Camino High campus late last month. The complaint was signed by the school's Dean of Girls, Mrs. Anita Banning.

The Jeff Scene

By SUE McALLISTER

The Jefferson C.S.F. Club headed by Al Sinor will make its third annual camping trip May 5-7 to Hidden Villa Ranch, near Los Altos.

All money used for food and supplies was earned by the club through car washes.

A DANCE WAS HELD AT Jefferson High School on April 23rd for Muscular Dystrophy.

Students danced for three hours to the sounds of three Bay Area groups for a $1 donation to the worthy cause. The Jeff students donated about $150.

THE CLASS OF '73 ordered its specially designed rings. The sophomores expect the rings late this year or early next year.

"YOUTH LEADS THE WAY in Human Relations" was the theme of a countywide Human Relations Conference attended by 17 Jefferson students.

The goal of the Conference was to establish a basis for communication and understanding between all ethics by presenting concepts and problems then talking about them.

The conference was held at San Mateo High School and Martin Luther King Center in San Mateo April 23.

The students were greeted by Bersch, a Burlingame High School student who introduced special guests, Doris M. Ward, a coordinator and representative from Intergroup Education, San Mateo County Schools; Dr. Russell Kent, County Schools superintendent, and Joseph Peters of Dr. Glasser's Reality Therapy Institute.

Each speaker encouraged students in what they were attempting to accomplish.

Peters helped the students to get to know each other quickly. He divided group into groups of four persons who had not met each other. Each student told of their recent successes.

Each group also evaluated each other.

This was an effective presentation and Peters summed up his theme, "Planning for Success" by saying that what an individual got from the conference depended on what he put into it.

NEW OFFICERS — Mrs. Milton Kinel (right) of San Bruno was elected Chairman of the North San Mateo YWCA Board of Management and Mrs. John Dubus of Daly City Co-chairman of the Association at a recent meeting. The Board meets monthly to decide on program plans for the YWCA.

'Sew and Show' Slated in SSF

"Fashions by the Yard" is the theme of St. Veronica's School Guild's annual "Sew and Show" fashion show which will take place Saturday, May 8 at 1 p.m. in the school cafetorium in Alida Way in South San Francisco.

Mrs. Allen McVeigh, school guild chairman, has appointed Mrs. Donald Armanasco as show chairman. Committee members are the Mesdames Nello Bigongiari, hostesses; Paul Millett, Models; Courtland Lee, decorations; Kenneth Lucia, program; Roger Pfaff, refreshments; Alfred Salogga, reservations; Robert Timko, special awards; James Griffin, prizes; Russell Tetreault, publicity; Homer Potter, clean-up and Danial Harrington, table favors.

As a guest speaker this year we are indeed fortunate to have Mrs. Marcie Hyman of Weight Watchers.

Tickets will be $1.75 for adults and 75 cents for children and may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Alfred Salogga, 112 April Avenue, South San Francisco (588-4344).

Background music for the show will be provided by Bronstein Music.

Proceeds will benefit the school guild fund.

Bruno Garden Club to Sponsor Rummage Sale

Members of the San Bruno Garden Club will sponsor a rummage sale May 21. Items for donation may be picked up by contacting any of the affiliates.

The group will travel to Soulbysville on May 22 to visit Mrs. Tom Pokorny, past president. Potluck dinner will be served.

The club is a member of the Bay Ocean District, California Garden Clubs, Inc.

Model Senate Program May 17-19 at Jefferson

By KATHY HNILO
Jefferson Student

Jefferson High School students participate annually in what is called the "Model Senate" program.

The program is designed to acquaint the students with the workings of the United States Senate.

Each student in the program portrays a U.S. Senator and represents that senator's views and opinions on key issues, which will be discussed through formal speeches and open debate.

This year's Model Senate will convene on May 17 from 8:30 a.m. to 12:05 p.m. and May 19 from 11:15 a.m. to 2:35 p.m.

Presiding over the Senate as president pro tem will be Rudie Tretten. There will be discussions on such issues as income tax deduction reduction, health insurance for the poor, S. E. Asia trop withdral, and U.S. interventions, plus two surprise bills, one from each political party.

Cathy Mitchell Says Vows at San Francisco Church

The marriage of Cathy Joan Mitchell and Leon Albert Attabit Jr. recently took place at Saint Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Stroup Mitchell of San Bruno and James Newell Mitchell. Her bridegroom's parents are the senior Leon Attabits of San Francisco.

Lana Volk attended the bride as maid of honor and other attendants included Mrs. Mike Ratto, Mrs. Jerry Beltramo, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Sam Lord and Sharon Cozad.

Best man for the benedict was Bill Labrum and guests were seated by Bill and Thomas Martinez, Mike and James Benevidez, Joseph Olivera and William Newlin.

Immediately following the ceremony, the newlyweds received felicitations at the House of Lawton in San Francisco. They departed later for a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

The bride is the sister of Daniel Allen Mitchell. She is an alumna of Crestmoor High School and the Academy of Art College in San Francisco.

Reardon High School and San Francisco State are Leon's alma maters. He is now teaching physical education to high school students in Daly City. Jacques Attabit is his brother.

CROWDING AROUND to sign out their books of tickets for the benefit dinner-dance for the School of Italian Language and Culture are Kathleen Rengue, Susan Rengue, Mrs. Virgil Rengue, Jr., Edward Rengue, Mrs. Damiano Germinario, Franco, Maria and Rosa Linda Germinario. The event will be on May at the Rod and Gun Club. (Starr Photo)

Audubon Society Program Set

"An Underwater Field Trip with Ben Masters," will be the program at the Sequoia Audubon Society meeting at 8 p.m. May 13, at Roosevelt School, Broadway and Vancouver Avenue, Burlingame.

Richard B. Masters, insurance executive and scuba diving enthusiast, will present a slide-lecture program.

The public is invited.

Wine, Cheese Tasting on Ship

Gold medal wines from the Napa Valley and cheeses from Denmark will be presented for a tasting aboard the museum ship, "Balcutha," at San Francisco's Embarcadero, May 19, at 5:30 p.m.

The 11th annual charity event will benefit the McQuade Memorial Awards for journalistic excellence.

The Association of Catholic Newsmen sponsors the event, which each year draws wide civic and social support.

The wine and cheese-tasting party will feature seven of the best wines produced by Christian Brothers and a half-dozen world-famous cheeses made by the Denmark Cheese Association.

The new wines will be introduced to guests of the newsmen, Pineau De La Loire and Gamay Noir, both red wines which have drawn great interest from wine connoisseurs. Other Christian Brothers wines will include Grey Riesling, Pinto Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon, Napa Rose, and Chateau La Salle.

Danish cheeses will include Tybo, Samsoe, Havarti (Danish Tilsit), Erson (Danish Port Salut), and Danish Camembert.

Tours of the museum ship will be a part of the Catholic Newsmen's annual party.

The wine-tasting will be conducted by Brother Timothy, F.S.C., world-famous cellarmaster of the Catholic teaching order whose wine-making helps finance their schools, and Brother Frederick, F.S.C., assistant to the president of Christian Brothers Winery at Mont La Salle Vineyards, Napa.

The Catholic Newsmen's McQuade Awards honor the late Edward McQuade, a founding member and first president of the ACN, who was city editor of two San Francisco newspapers during his career as well as president of the San Francisco Press Club and the San Francisco-Oakland Newspaper Guild. He died in 1949 at the age of 41.

The awards are made to men and women in newspaper, radio and television for stories or series in the interest of social justice.

Book Sale Saturday

It still isn't too late to assist the Friends of the Library with the annual book fair, slated for this Saturday in the Westlake Mall.

According to Mrs. Frank Greenwood, chairman of the annual event, more books are needed to make the benefit a stellar success and the members of the fair committee are working hard to see that it is made absolutely convenient for anyone wishing to donate a used book to do so.

If you are cleaning off your book shelf and have text books, cook books, novels, non-fiction, reference books, children's books, records or paperback books you would like to contribute to the sale you may do one of two things, drop your donation into the barrel at any local fire station or call 756-7916 and arrange to have the books picked up. No magazines, please.

If you are seeking some new reading material browse about the tables in the Westlake Mall Saturday anytime between 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. and collect some of the finest bargains in literature available anywhere.

Prices are low and the variety of books offered is infinite. Shoppers will be able to buy a fantastic cookbook or hours of reading pleasure for no more than the loose change available in the bottom of an average purse.

Assisting Mrs. Greenwood with the organization of the fair are Mrs. Raymond Schnapp, Mrs. Monte Hill and Mrs. Vinton Stratton. Volunteers from the local chapter of the Friends of the Library will be staffing the sales tables to assist shoppers throughout the day.

MRS. FRANK LAWSON will preside at the Westlake Catholic Women's meeting on Monday night thus ending her term in office during the concluding session of the spring, according to Mrs. Francis Kelly, publicity chairman for the group.

The monthly gathering will convene following the 8 p.m. devotional service at Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church. Members will assemble in the parish hall to receive the financial report from the Spring Festival committee and to meet the 1971-72 officers being presented by the nominating committee.

Both incoming and retiring officers will be honored during the social hour following the meeting. Mrs. Donald Gianfermo will be in charge of the hostesses and the refreshments.

The presentation of several awards to members in good standing will be added highlight of the evening Mrs. Kelly announced.

IT SEEMS THAT every month and every week has been designated by someone, somewhere, to honor or to draw attention to some thing or group. This week the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is focusing attention on being kind to animals and literature. Speakers from the SPCA will be making the rounds of the schools and youth groups drawing attention to the importance of a happy, healthy pet population in this country.

May also is important to another segment of our society, a segment that often is overlooked because there have been no societies organized to oversee kindliness and care for our senior citizens.

The unity and mobilization of the older members of the community is a relatively new phenomena which has risen out of a need for strength and power to prevent society's pressures from crushing those past retirement age.

If you are over 50 years of age consider joining one of the many fine senior citizens group on the northern peninsula. Check with your church or the local park and recreation department for the names, meeting places and types of senior citizens groups in your neighborhood.

Should you live in Pacifica Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, president of the Fifty Plus Club, is always happy to welcome new faces to meetings of that group. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Pacifica library located at Palmetto and Hilton. No advance reservation or invitation is required.

TUESDAY IS THE DAY for the Riordan High School Mothers Guild Installation Mass to be held at 8 p.m. in Chaminade Hall, according to Mrs. Thomas Bocci Jr., publicity chairman.

Father Raymond Malley will celebrate the mass and install Mrs. Ray Rinaldi in the post of president. Others who will be installed during the ceremony are Mrs. Michael Dudly, first vice president; Mrs. Donald McNab, second vice president; Mrs. John Ronecus, recording secretary; Mrs. Tony Silvestri, financial secretary, Mrs. Charles McNicholas, treasurer; Mrs. Dan Keohan, auditor and Mrs. Vito Giotto, Mrs. Daniel Boyle, Mrs. Raul Pena, Mrs. Martin Hughes and Mrs. Carlo Cirelli, board members. Mrs. Marge Pesce, the chairman of the alumni mothers, and members of that unit of the guild will be the hostesses for the evening.

According to Mrs. Bocci, Mrs. Milton Blank, junior past president, and all former presidents of the guild will be the honored guests at the social hour which will follow the installation.

ANN ARMOUR has been selected by the Mary's Help Hospital Guild for special honors in connection with her work as a volunteer in the hospital.

Employed during the day, Ann still finds the time and energy to staff the information desk every Tuesday evening and frequently fills in on other evening or on Sundays when another volunteer is unable to be on hand.

Because of her devotion and loyalty to the hospital, Ann Armour has been named Pink Lady of the Month.

Pacifica AAUW to Meet Today

The April general meeting of the Pacifica Branch of the American Association of University Women will be May 5.

Mrs. Julian Reinhertz, Pacifica V Branch president represented the branch at the convention in Fresno.

Pacifica Branch elected officers at their annual meeting in March.

Leading the group for the 71-72 term will be Mrs. Julian Reinhertz, president; Mrs. Marvin Dutton, 1st vice president; Mrs. Dan Robinson, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Gary Winston, secretary; Mrs. Walter Griffiths, treasurer.

AAUW is open to all women college graduates without invitation, and women who are interested should call Janice Dutton.

District Meet Is Attended by SSF Clubwomen

Members of the South San Francisco Woman's Club attended the Golden Gate District convention recently in San Francisco. Delegates were Mrs. Fred Curtis, president; Mrs. Carmelo Imprescia, president-elect; Mrs. Nelo Lazzari, vice president elect; and Mrs. Oliver Sass.

Other members attending were Mrs. William Kasper, state chairman on international policies and projects; Mrs. Elwood Freeman, district parliamentarian; and Mrs. Rarry Leitner and Mrs. Charls Milly.

Art Guild Sets Pacifica Show

The Art Guild of Pacifica will hold a Mother's Day show May 7-9 at the Fairmont Shopping Center.

Artists from the surrounding area, as well as from Pacifica, are entered.

The varied media includes painting, pottery, and sculpture.

A few artists will demonstrate their skills at "art in action" booths.

Ursuline Guild Will Seat Staff

The Ursuline Guild of St. John's High School will meet May 12 at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium, 4056 Mission Street.

Installation of new officers will be held and senior class mothers and past presidents will be guests.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

Terra Nova's Fine Arts Festival April 27 was a success, if parental reactions were sufficient evidence, and was attended by a sizable crowd of students, parents, and children.

The band and chorus entertained in the cafetorium, provided dramatic and improvisational amusement by members of the Advanced Drama class, and the multi-purpose room was transformed into TN's own art gallery, as an impressive selection of student drawings, paintings, crafts, ceramics, and sculpture were displayed by the Art Department.

The Foreign Language Department presented several skits in French and Spanish, which the students worked on as a class project, and the Girls' PE Department offered demonstrations in hockey, volleyball and jazz and Balkan dancing.

In the business rooms were several displays. The Homemaking departments gave demonstrations in cooking, and the Industrial Arts Department had all of the shops in operation.

IN ADDITION to these highlights, were two attractions not on the program — a P-TA Cake Sale and TN's principal Tom Panagoulias, who could be seen looking very sharp and stylish in his suit and modern blue shirt, strolling casually through the crowd and stopping to greet parents and visitors.

Teachers were available in their home rooms, and the counseling staff and administration were present to answer any questions. The guides for Open House were members of the Terra Nova spirit staff.

Among the signs that were seen around campus were those colorfully announcing the upcoming school play, "The Skin of Our Teeth," a Thornton Wilder comedy satirizing the history of mankind, which will start it's five performance engagement tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the cafetorium.

The play features a large and diverse cast, the characters ranging from political conveeners to a pet dinosaur, and takes place in Pacifica, Calif., a small coastal city.

HERE ARE SEVERAL of the cast members' remarks about the play and their own interpretations:

Rick Mendez (the Dinosaur): "This play is about man's discrimination against animals. They kick me out of the house to freeze to death while they sit around and have sandwiches and coffee. That's discrimination."

Bruce Patterson (the Announcer): "It's about the survival of man despite himself. Man has gone through various disasters and has committed countless immoral wrongs. This play is about that element in man that has kept him going."

Vicki Moseley (Drum Majorette No. 1): "It's the blacks and whites of life. Half the time is spent laughing and half is crying."

Debi Pickell (Sabina): "I don't understand a word of this play, and that's the God's truth."

WHS Spanish Club Girls Make Trip

Eight Westmoor students traveled to Mexico recently after seven months of car washes, selling candy, soap, peanut brittle and washing police cars. They were Debbie Colombana, Carol Gomez, Sue Carson, Judy Thompson, Linda Passetti, Karen Singer, Rosy Guilen, and Roseanne Regal.

Twenty students from the Spanish club and advisor George De Shazer, had planned the trip. De Shazer became ill and the group narrowed to eight girls.

Making up the money difference the girls headed to Mexico City, Acapulco, Taxco and Cuernavaco for a week of fun, excitement, education and strange experiences.

Arriving late on April 2 in Mexico City the girls were met by a representative who took them by cab to their hotel. The girls, unaccustomed to Mexico drivers, found themselves dodging in and out among cars and on the wrong side of the street.

Recovering from the first excitement of Mexico, the next problem was use of water. Some were apprehensive about using it and went for the apple juice to brush their teeth.

They said they enjoyed the city.

Ballets, where they met the artists, and bullfights, where they met the matadors and the bulls, were a few highlights. Roseanne Regal jousted a baby bull.

Floating gardens, castles, pyramids, national palace, shrine of Guadalupe, and the new subway were also side stops.

In Taxco some members of the club participated in a Holy Week procession through the town, and, because of a mix-up, spent the night in the hotel's best bridal suite.

All are planning a return trip during the summer.

NELL NORTON

Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

In last week's column the recipe for Onion Sour Cream French Bread failed to list the amount of sour cream needed: one cup.

When you buy the sour cream for this recipe you would be wise to buy a pint of sour cream and use the second cup of cream in this delicious cake.

SOUR CREAM CAKE

1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon cream of tarter
½ teaspoon salt
three-fourths teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup sour cream
one egg, slightly beaten
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup raisins

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour an 8x8x2-inch pan.

Combine and sift together the one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon baking soda, one-quarter teaspoon cream of tarter, half teaspoon salt and three-fourths teaspoon nutmeg.

Combine the one cup brown sugar with the cup sour cream and blend well. Stir in the slightly beaten egg. Add the sifted dry ingredients, then the half cup each nuts and raisins. Stir only until blended.

Pour into the prepared 8-inch square pan and bake at 350-degrees for about 45 minutes.

Cool and sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar or frost with your favorite icing.

THIS CAKE WOULD TAKE care of dessert today, but what about the rest of the meal? Does pork chops with rice sound good to you? It did to me and tasted good, too.

BAKED PORK CHOPS WITH RICE

4 pork chops
salt, pepper and paprika
1 can, 303, whole peeled tomatoes
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon celery salt
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped onion
1½ Tablespoons water
Three-fourths cup rice, uncooked

Sprinkle the four pork chops with salt, pepper and paprika. Pan broil until a light brown on each side. Remove from skillet, add the half cup each green pepper and onion and cook until tender. Remove from heat. Add the can tomatoes, juice and all, fourth teaspoon each salt and celery salt, one and one-half tablespoons water and three-fourths cup raw rice. Stir and pour into a 2-quart casserole with cover. Place pork chops on top, cover and bake for 1¼ hours at 350-degrees.

Serves 4.

AND FOR THE GREEN vegetable with this meal? This combination of celery and green peas makes an attractive and tasty dish.

CELERY PLUS

2 cups thinly sliced celery
one cup boiling water
¼ teaspoon salt
1 package frozen peas, cooked
1 tablespoon butter

Cook the two cups rice in the cup boiling water and fourth teaspoon salt, covered, until celery is tender. About 10 minutes. Cook and drain the peas. Combine the peas and celery and add tablespoon butter.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Millbrae P-TA Selects Officers

Members of the Millbrae P-TA coordinating committee have re-elected Mrs. William Paul, a former president of Spring Valley P-TA, as chairman.

Mrs. Thomas Daniels, the new vice-chairman, begins her first term. Mrs. Daniels is also the newly elected president of Chadbourne P-TA.

Mrs. Vernon Finacom, former president of Highlands P-TA, is also a second year officer. She has been re-elected as secretary-treasurer.

Bethel Women Plan Festival

The Women's Auxiliary of Bethel Lutheran Church will hold its Spring Festival May 7 in the Fellowship Hall, 2525 Alemany Boulevard. Doors will open at 11:30 a.m. and the luncheon will be served from noon to 1:30 p.m.

A display of fancy work, gift items, and white elephant specialties will be featured along with a wide selection of home baked foods.

Millbrae Queen Show

Eight Millbrae girls have agreed to test their beauty and charm against each other in the annual "Miss Millbrae" pageant May 8.

Ranging from tall blondes to tiny brunettes, they have been working with Chamber of Commerce manager "Chips" Maurer in a movie film sequence which will introduce the pageant that Saturday night at the Capuchino High School auditorium.

Radio announcer Tom Campbell will act as master of ceremonies for the show, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. The Eddie Paul Experience, will provide music.

Chamber Manager Maurer says the beauty pageant winner will not only win a title, and a chance to compete in county contests, but will also be given a "grand prize" of a round trip to Hawaii, for two.

Contestants are:

Caron Ramsell, 18, a senior at Mills High, sponsored by Arby's Roast Beef; Linda Larson, 17, a senior at Mills, sponsored by the Round Table Pizza;

Adele Andreini, 17, a senior at Capuchino, sponsored by Britt's;

Aileen Daniels, 18, a College of San Mateo student, sponsored by the Ritz men's shop;

Linda Reudy, 17, a senior at Mercy High, sponsored by U.S.E.;

Louise Anjo, 19, a College of San Mateo student sponsored by Millbrae Jewelers;

Debe Wilson, 18, a Capuchino senior sponsored by Highlands Liquors;

Cindi McGuigan, a 17-year-old Capuchino High senior, sponsored by the Red Shoes dance studio.

Big 'Cleanup Drive' in S.S.F.

Residents of South San Francisco will have an opportunity to dispose of almost anything that can fit into a vehicle—free of charge—during a four-week-end "Clean Up Campaign" sponsored by the city.

Mayor William Borba said residents may dispose of any sort of trash, including rocks and concrete, on Saturdays and Sundays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the month of June.

The residents must haul the refuse to the South San Francisco Scavenger Company yard, 69 South Linden Avenue, however.

Five scavenger company employes will be on hand to assist residents in unloading their autos, and a police reserve officer will be on hand for traffic control and general enforcement, said Borba.

No commercial discards will be allowed, nor any lumber over four feet long. Any size vehicle up to three-quarter ton will be permitted.

Youth Funds

The practice of budgeting $20,000 toward employing youngsters for a summer youth work program in South San Francisco yesterday was approved by the councilmen.

Under the program the city hires 15-16-and-17-year-olds to work with the park and public works departments during the months of August and September.

Strong Local Controls Backed by Mateo Mayors

The mayors of San Mateo County strongly favor local control of government as they opposed two bills proposed by Assemblyman John T. Knox of Contra Costa County.

These would:

1. Set up regional agencies to approve land use developments to assure they do not injure the ecology of an entire region, and, would,

2. Create five regional agencies that would place a moratorium on any development within 1,000 yards of the state's coastline except under strictly preconceived regulations.

The San Mateo County Council of Mayors in taking its action at the Menlo Country Club did not disagree with the principles of either Knox bills, however, but disagreed on the amount of control local authorities should have over government. The council went on record, unanimously, in asking the Association of Bay Area Governments and the League of California Cities to come up with substitute bills that would accomplish the same purposes but with more local representation.

Grace McCarthy, Pacifica, is the first woman president of the Mayors' Council. Mayor George F. Seager of San Carlos was elected vice mayor.

In speaking of Knox Assembly Bill 1057 to create regional governmental agencies, Councilman R. David Martin of Burlingame claimed that the proposed legislation has forced a "tremendous clash" between conservationists and local governments.

"I do not know why this is so," Martin commented. He said it seems that conservationists oppose local governments because they do not believe local officials can preserve the ecology of their region and thus the bill by Knox proposes the creation of a "third level of government."

Martin maintained the bill proposes that 40 representatives without experience on local governments be appointed to each board, and that a 4-cent tax per $100 on local real estate transfers be placed in addition to a 11-cent tax already on such transfers.

"This sets up an entirely new local government and this is not to our advantage to follow this route," Martin asserted. "It appoints a local body and various commissions. You are fighting conservationists who think local government cannot do the job.

"I do not know where they got this idea. It is we that really have the greatest stake in this fight."

Martin said he understood that the Knox bill does not provide for local supervisors or councilmen to be appointed to the regional boards.

The Mayors' Council voted unanimously to go on record as opposing the present Knox bill and to encourage the Association of Bay Area Governments to come up with a substitute bill.

The mayors' council recorded itself against a series of proposed bills that would regulate or place a moratorium on coastside development.

It was noted that any of the coastside bills would affect Daly City, Pacifica and Half Moon Bay in San Mateo County as they would give control of any development within 1,000 yards of the shoreline to a regional agency.

"For God's sake, let us not sit on this and have it forced down our throats," Martin appealed.

Mrs. McCarthy said there are several bills before the state legislature, one of which, Assembly Bill 16, would create a California Conservation and Control Board, with control over five local zones.

Councilman Thomas M. Jenkins of San Carlos noted if local control is lost, a local tax base for Coastside communities would be gone. He said if coastal control and planning agencies are set up, local communities should be compensated by the state for the loss of property taxes.

A motion was passed that if any regional coastside agency is established it should be representative of local governments, and that provisions ought to be set up in which the state would reimburse local municipalities for the loss of any tax base.

Councilman Nevin K. Hiester of Portola Valley, the county's delegate on the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, reported the district has set up a series of long range goals.

Optimists Form in S.S.F.

Lt. James Datzman

Lt. James Datzman, South San Francisco Police Department, was elected president of the Optimist Club of South San Francisco at the official organization meeting of the new club, held at Oliver's Restaurant. The club formed by 38 business, industry and professional men of South San Francisco, will hold regular luncheon meetings each Tuesday at 12:15 at Bertolucci's Restaurant.

Other officers elected at the organization meeting were: Robert Aronson and Carl Durham, vice presidents. Named to the board of directors were: Dennis Kringer, Ron Petrocchi, Midge Damonte, Gil Castro, Dr. Manuel Luna and James Scott. Bert Olson, Wells Fargo Bank was appointed to serve as he club's secretary-treasurer.

The new Optimist club will be a part of the Pacific Central District, of which Edwin E. Heiland of Santa Clara is Governor.

Suspect Held in Gun Theft

A transient ex-convict parole violator arrested in Turlock last week has been arraigned in North County Judicial Court of burglary charge in connection with theft of rare guns.

Michael T. Hudson, 24, was booked by South San Francisco police in connection with the January 13 theft of 28 rifles and shotguns valued in excess of $30,000 from Royal Inn Hotel.

Nixon Will Enforce Decision of Court

In a wide ranging press conference last Thursday evening, President Nixon spoke on many subjects. Possibly lost in the midst of Southeast Asian war policy, China policy, and a bit of pure politics was a statement of the President concerning the relationship of the Supreme Court and the Presidency.

It came in conjunction with his comments on the recent school busing decision of the Supreme Court. Prior to this ruling, the President had declared that executive policy was to take the other course. A sound constitutional lawyer, he at that time alluded to the overridng power of the Court, and announced that his guide lines were tentative depending upon the Court's determination.

The decision was a nation mover. In a landmark ruling the 9-0 opinion written by Chief Justice Burger declared that busing could be ordered to eliminate all vestiges of state-imposed segregation. Important people in and out of the south deplored the result and Martha Mitchell declared that the Supreme Court should be abolished.

In this context of uproar, the President's words are an important landmark of constitutional government. Confronted by a unanimous decision rendered by the "Burger Court" written by his nominee as Chief Justice, the President might have grumbled about the ruling. Instead, he stated that the decision was the law of the land and assured the nation of cooperative enforcement.

The significance of the law of the land is something many may miss. The Federal Constitution, Article VI declares:

"This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all Treaties made or which shall be made, under the Authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any thing in the Constitution or Laws of any State to the Contrary notwithsanding."

In 1803 Chief Justice John Marshall gave the decision of the Supreme Court in the case or Marbury v. Madison. He wrote that "The question whether an act repugnant to the Constitution can become the law of the land, is a question deeply interesting to the United States." The case established the role of the Supreme Court in determining the constitutionality of congressional legislation and in acting as final authority on the meaning of the constitution.

In other cases Marshall affirmed the Supreme Court's power to review and reverse decisions of state courts when they concerned issues under the federal Constitution, and on thirteen occasions declared state laws unconstitutional as contrary to the "Supreme Law of the Land."

Under our system of delegated powers and checks and balances, this power of the Supreme Court is sometimes frustrating, often confusing, but always necessary to the maintenance of the rule of law. Through our history the force of this coordinate branch of government has successfully checked the will and whim of States, Congress and Presidents. Chief Executives including Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and certainly Franklin Roosevelt have been thwarted and frustrated by binding court decisions .

Present attitudes concerning law endanger not only the Court but our entire system of government. Today, if a man doesn't like a law he not only disagrees, but disobeys. Liberals and conservatives join in the rhetoric of lawlessness.

The President's rational and deliberate statement concerning a decision he would not have rendered himself makes clear the majesty of our constitutional form of government. The nation should listen, for as we have learned the alternative to an established law of the land was once civil war, and today would probably be found in anarchy.

Beware Get Rich Quick Schemes

Have you met someone who showed you a bundle of money, told you he had found it and would divide the money with you if you would show "good faith" by putting up your money?

Did he instruct you to request cash at the bank? Did he tell you to refuse a cashier's check by explaining to the teller that you needed cash for a trip or repairs to your home?

Have you met some person who showed you a bundle of money and who told you he does not trust banks?

Did he offer you money if you can show him you can make a withdrawal from the bank? Was he not impressed by a bank book? Would he not recognize a check, but must see the currency?

Have you been approached by a person who told you he has come to this city to give several thousand dollars to charity? Did he say that searching for an honest person to help him distribute the money? Did he ask you to show "good faith" by putting up your money?

Have you received a phone call from a person who claims to be an official of your bank, and who requests your cooperation in trapping a thief by withdrawing a large sum of money from your account? Did he explain to you that he will send a private detective to your home to take the money because it is too large a sum to keep at your home overnight?

Have you recently met someone that has offered you money, under any circumstances, and requested you to show "good faith" by putting up your money? Did he instruct you to refuse a cashier's check and request money?

If the answer is "yes" to any of the above questions, immediately notify the Police Department. Do not withdraw your money. These con games (extortion or swindle) are perpetrated by both men and women who work singularly or in pairs to steal your money.

The Daly City Police Department cautions you to beware of any of these "get-rich-quick" schemes. (Call 992-1225.)

To The Editor

Editor, The Post:

The April 6 article by James W. Halley regarding the Calley conviction was the voice of reason among much emotion. As Mr. Halley said, nobody seems to care about the jury's verdict: Lt. Calley shot and killed no less than 22 unarmed and unresisting civilians.

To those who excuse the My Lai atrocities by saying "the army trained him to kill, and now they are convicting him of killing," I daresay Lt. Calley was not taught to kill five-year-old children. Can anyone seriously look at his five- or seven-year-old son, daughter, niece, nephew, or grandchild, and imagine his body being riddled by bullets? If this happened, could he then sit still as the perpetrator is considered justified by scores of people? If he could, he should have no problems condemning the Calley verdict. It seems to me that it is our duty to attempt to protect civilians.

There are those who bemoan the reaults and want to spread the guilt more broadly. They should note first, there are more officers to be court-martialed; and second, the fact that others are guilty in no way justifies Calley's guilt. If four men rob a store and kill a person, and three escape, should the person who is captured and found guilty be excused?

The facts are: Lt. Calley received a fair trial, with scores of witnesses, and was found guilty of 22 counts of murder. However, might it not be considered a bigger crime that so many Americans have come to his defense?

Regarding A. J. Dills' letter of March 31 in your Post:

Don't let it get your goat Dills!

They are cutting up Pete McCloskey because they are afraid of the powers he might usurp from the true opportunist politicans.

Pete has the guts to push for what he believes.

I know him as an unassuming, conservative and soft spoken man of conscience and sincerity. A man who readily admits he does not have all the answers, and wishes he did.

He has a few questions however, which President Nixon chose to ignore.

McCloskey never struck me as trying to maintain a peasant image. He drives a Volkswagen because he obviously prefers that type of car. He happens to be a fastidious dresser, and evokes no peasant image.

If changing with circumstances or the times makes one a chameleon, then we all need to be chameleons.

I agree Dills, that McCloskey is a sensitive, look-before-you-jump type of person.

I approve of what he has done for us in the past, as I also approve of what he is trying to do now.

The fact that his own Republican Party renounced him, doesn't mean a thing to me. I vote for the man, not the party.

I hope the day will come when there will be no party to interfere with voters choice.

I'll change my party as many times as necessary to give Pete McCloskey my legal vote and personal vote of confidence.

Governor Reagan and President Nixon both talk a lot and do little, but Congressman McCloskey is a man of action.

I hope more people will become aware of his dedicated abilities, and realize that we need more men like Pete in public service.

They can criticize him all they want, but if it is God's will, he will come out on top.

Leggy Competition

IN THIS DAY of women's lib Albert Fornesi, equipment operator with the South San Francisco Scavenger Company, shows his gams to promote that city's weekend cleanup campaign scheduled during the month of June. The more likely candidate for "Cleanup Queen" Colleen McGuirk, secretary to scavenger's president George Stagnaro, indicates the unshapely legs of Albert don't quite come up to the beauty standards of pretty Colleen. Mayor Bill Borba scratches his head in wonderment of the antics. Residents, incidentally, may dispose of trash free from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays during the month of June by taking it to the scavenger company yard at 69 South Linden Avenue.

Three-Year Degree

In view of the changing stresses, needs and techniques which have come to higher education over the years, it ought to be surprising that so little change has come to the form in which that education is presented.

Despite some notable experiments in other directions, the overwhelming majority of students still go to college four years to earn their degrees. Can't this process be speeded, in light of the crush of students and mushrooming costs?

That is what Harvard University is going to try to find out with a one-year study of the effects of changing its undergraduate program from four years to three. It may be an exaggeration to say that as Harvard goes, so goes the rest of academe, but the fact Harvard is looking into the three-year term will encourage imitators.

Camp Glenwood

A Boy Can Leave Anytime

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Nestled in the redwood forests near La Honda is Camp Glenwood.

Occasionally a herd of deer cautiously encircles the small cluster of one-story buildings.

It is 9 a.m. and except for the chatter of birds the complex is quiet.

The students are attending school classes, earning credits that will aid in furthering their education.

These classes are taught by qualified instructors under the scrutiny of Principal Douglas C. Booth and San Mateo County Superintendent of Schools J. Russell Kent.

Much of the landscaping — planting of flowers and some vegetables — is done by the students, who also participate in a forest conservation program around the camp.

There are no fences, guards, lights or barriers around Glenwood, a juvenile detention center.

Any boy can walk away whenever he desires.

Few take advantage of this fact. In many cases, boys who "escape" find their way back.

Third in Series

Glenwood Superintendent Reobert T. Rognas and his as sistant, Earl Smith, explain that although the camp cost per boy is higher than some alternative meaures of correction (about $470 per month) Glenwood and a girls' day care center are considered ideal approaches to the treatment of juvenile offenders.

Every juvenile arrested for the commission of a crime does not get the opportunity to be sentenced to Glenwood. The camp last year experienced an average of 50 boys per month with the average length of stay about 5½ months.

In 1970, 160 boys were admitted to Glenwood. The longest stay was nine months and the shortest 4½ months.

Rognas, a 20-year veteran of the San Mateo County Probation Department, has been at Glenwood since it opened in 1962.

During the past nine years the makeup of the boys attending Glenwood has dramatically changed, he said.

About 80 per cent of Glenwood's population have used drugs in one form or another, although they are not necessarily charged with that crime, Rognas said.

Whatever Rognas and his staff are doing at Glenwood appears to be working.

The rate of boys returning is low among those who have graduated from Glenwood. Many have rejoined their families and become productive members of society.

As an example: In 1969 a total of 131 boys were admitted to Glenwood; 96 successfully completed the program, and 20 others were released from programs after receiving maximum benefits but failed to graduate.

Only 13 boys were sent to the California Youth Authority during the same period.

"Some offenders cannot be saved regardless of what we do," Rognas said.

Many youths at Glenwood require psychiatric care because of emotionaly instability brought on, in many cases, by the use of drugs.

Rognas explains that through educational processes and working closely with families of individuals needing such treatment, a better understading of the problem is gained.

Group counseling for parents, as well as the children at Camp Glenwood and the Girls' Day Care Center, has been incorporated into the programs.

Shop work for the boys and needlecraft for girls is also considered to be a valuable aid in the rehabilitation of youth.

"Kids learn they can create things. It gives them much satisfaction," Rognas explains while pointing out an attractive footstool made by an 11-year-old boy.

Periodically the camp has a graduation.

The boys that graduate go home and try to reconstruct their lives. They know leaving the camp does not end their obligations to obey the law.

Girl offenders attending the pioneering day care program get to go home every night — with stiff reservations on what they can and cannot do.

The program is a new treatment approach for juvenile delinquents.

Gene C. Post supervising probation officer for the program, considers it the best, most economical method of caring for juvenile offenders — boys and girls.

The program started in 1965 after some two years of exploration by officials of the probation department. Since that time it has blossomed into a full-scale operation.

Joyless Classes

Joyless classrooms, adult standards, singsong patter, descriptive rather than learning. These are the terms of attack hurled by the critics of today's schools.

It is not possible to spend any prolonged period visiting public-school classrooms," writes Charles Silberman in his book "Crisis in the Classroom," without being appalled by the mutilation visible everywhere—mutilation of spontaneity, of joy in learning, of plasure in creating, of sense of self . . . Because adults take the schools so much for granted, they fail to appreciate what grim, joyless places most American schools are." Quoting Erik H. Erikson, Mr. Silberman says the result is "the mutilation of a child's spirit."

A report of the attack on the conventional schools is found in the May 3rd issue of Newsweek.

The correspondents who wrote the article toured dozens of grade school classrooms around the nation and found plainful evidence of joyless classrooms. They found teachers devoid of imagination teaching subject matter from pictures rather than from use of such modern devises as field trips, audio tapes, and films.

As a sample they cite a first grade room in a Georgia school. The teacher keeps up a nonstop, singsong patter to remind her charges of their failures. "My word, don't sit like that . . . I see some poor posture . . . Put that pencil down and look at me . . . I hear somebody talking without their hand up, and that's very rude."

"I'm not their babysitter," such a teacher snaps, "I'm not going to try and be mother and father and teach them the things they don't learn at home. I'm here to teach them their sixth-grade subjects."

As a contrast, Newsweek has pictures of informal classrooms where "leaning is fun."

" . . . Children wander through their classrooms like free souls—sprawling on the floor to read library books that they themselves have chosen, studying mathematics by learning how to cope with family food bills, chattering and painting and writing, writing. Their teachers glide purposefully from group to group and from child to child, guiding, correcting, encouraging."

The type of schools that come to characterize America are being formulated by the controversary reported in the Newsweek article—Informed citizens cannot afford to miss it.

Rabid Bat in Bruno

Recently a rabid bad was detected in the Lomita Park area of San Bruno. It seems that the bat had been captured by a woman's cat and upon investigation it was determined that the bat was in fact rabid.

The Humane Society has asked that the Community be alerted to the fact that rarely, if ever, will bats be seen flying during daylight hours, and if so this abnormal behavior on their part may constitute an indication of rabies.

Anyone seeing a bat during daylight hours or who comes upon the carcass of a bat, are requested immediately to contact the Humane Society.

The carcass should not be touched, and pets should be kept from the area.

BURGLARY

A great number of the entries being made by burglars in San Bruno are being done during daylight hours. In better than 50 per cent of these the suspect meets no resistance because the home is left unlocked.

Women Welcome on River

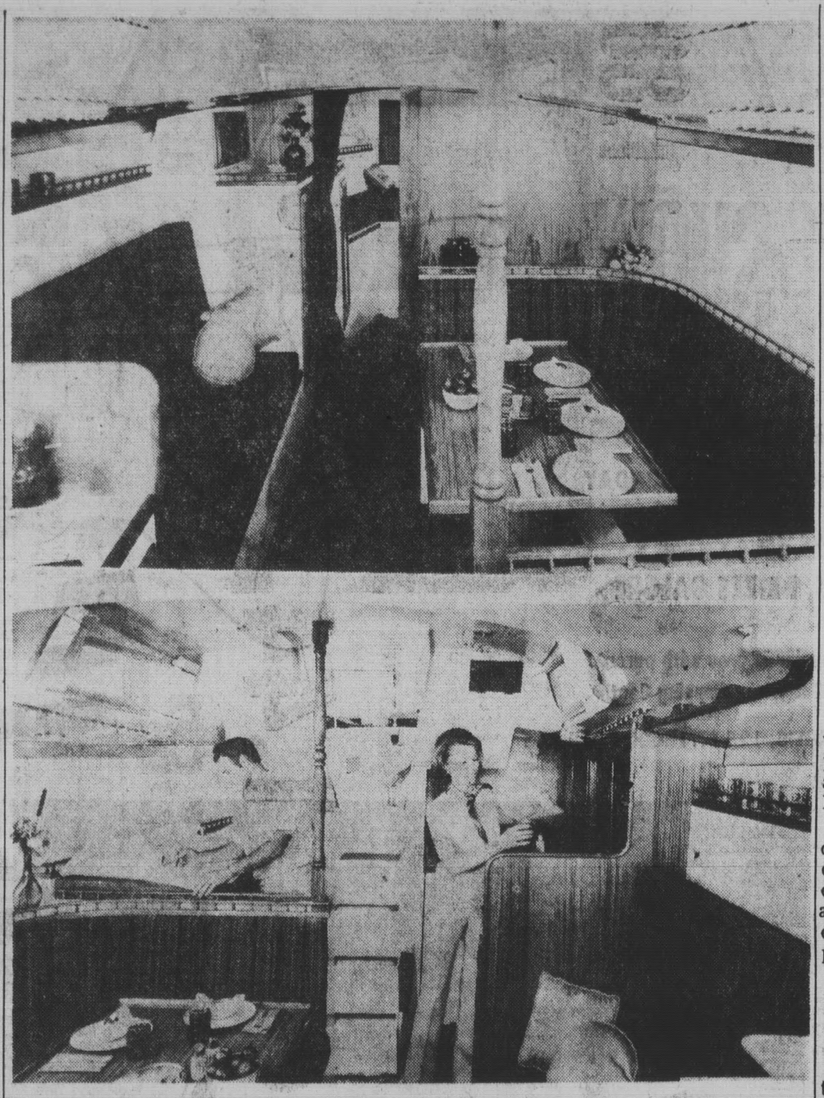
Women are getting their feet wet! In increasing numbers, they are heading for the rivers of America. They board rugged rafts and drift leisurely through mountain and canyon wilds, discovering that it's not really a man's world afterall.

Running a wild river releases women from traditional family and social roles, says California's non-profit American River Touring Association. Through rapport with nature, she discovers new possibilities for self-expression. Moreover, comments ARTA director Lou Elliott, a river trip provides a unique fellowship among new friends seldom found at home, or at the old vacation resort for that matter. "People share good company best when the scene is natural and adventure is real."

A review of river runners in 1970 conducted by the Oakland based American River Touring Association reveals that almost one-half were women. Either on their own or with family or friends, they quickly dispel the notion that wilderness adventure is strictly a manly pursuit. Of course, husbands and children find these outings equally enjoyable, and the benefits are shared.

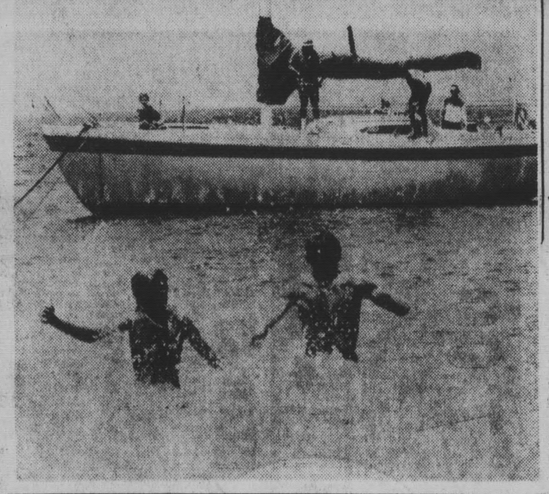
Rafting a wild river is much safer than travel by land or air, ARTA reports. Experienced guides and well-equipped rafts assure the enjoyment of each trip member. Since the guides also run the camp kitchen, women need only relish the zestful scent of the campfire meal which often includes fresh steak or beef stroganoff.

The number of river trips available is growing each year. Raft adventures sponsored by the American River Touring Association in 1971 include the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River, the Green River in the canyon parklands of Utah, the Middle Fork of the Salmon River in the mountainous Idaho Primitive Area, Oregon's beautiful Rogue River, and the Stanislaus River in California's historic Gold Rush Country, among others. ARTA has even arranged a series of international land adventures to the South Pacific, where the trip members will camp and explore the enchanting wilds of Samoa, Tahiti, Australia, New Zeland and the Fiji Islands.



Vacation Showboat

THE ROOM and sturdiness of a larger yacht, with the racing ease of a smaller boat is combined in the 34-foot Columbia yacht, of the featured displays in the Sports, Vacation and Home Show, Wednesday through Sunday at San Mateo County Fairgrounds. The Columbia sleeps seven, has seven-foot head clearance in the main cabin, a spacious dinette and two roomy cabins. The design offers racing skippers an extra long waterline and minimal wetted surface area.



Family Recreation Guide

"Let's Go," a guide to family recreation in the Bay Area, is being published in a newly-revised and reorganized edition by the Richmond Branch of the American Association of University Women.

In the tradition of the three earlier editions, this new book is packed with places to go and things to do, mostly close to home, but some as far away as Fort Ross, Sacramento and Monterey. There is useful information on picnic and camping sites, spots of historical interest, group tours and annual events. And there are new chapters on science centers in the Bay Area, railroad facilities and places of interest for senior family members.

Inside its sprightly new cover, this guide will give Peninsula families information on such areas of local interest as San Mateo County State Beaches, Sanchez Adobe, Butano State Park, Woodside Store and Marine World, as well as farther-away spots such as the Marin Museum of Science, Lake Berryessa, the Benicia Capital, Alum Rock Park, Ghirardelli Square's International Child Art Center and Mount Diablo State Park.

Orders for "Let's Go," at $1.50 a copy, may be sent to the Richmond Branch AAUW in care of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, 416 11th Street, Richmond, California. 94802.

Proceeds from the sale of the books are used solely by AAUW for educational purposes.

Full Kitchens for Campers

Tastes of today's sophisticated campers are no longer limited to skillet beans and campfire franks. Fully equipped kitchens in modern recreational vehicles allow campers to vary their menus as much as they would at home. To make mean-planning even easier, many campgrounds now feature well-stocked convenience stores right on the site.

Micro-bike Door Prize

An Instant Cycle micro-bike will be given away as a door prize at the Sports, Vacation and Home show this week at the Fiesta grounds.

Suitable for kids or adults, the compact motor bike, weighing only 30 pounds, fits easily into a carrying case about the size of a two-suiter, yet is strong enough to carry more than 300 pounds.

Keep Tent Dry

CAMPERS should make sure that ground cloths under tents do not extend beyond the tent walls. A ground cloth that sticks out may collect rain water running down a wall, causing a puddle to form under the tent.

Home Comforts at Campgrounds

Private campgrounds such as Kampgrounds of America, are offering the travel camper more luxurious accommodations. Every KOA — there are over 500 in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico — features clean restrooms, hot showers, a coin-operated laundry, convenience store, family lounge, utility hookups, and other comforts. Swimming pools and children's playgrounds are a common sight at these family camping spas.

Judge Edson Is Stricken

Superior Judge Lyle R. Edson was reported in fair condition in the coronary care unit at Sequoia Hospital today after becoming ill in court yesterday afternoon.

His wife, Josephine, said it was not established that he had suffered a heart attack and that he was in the coronary care unit as a precaution. She said he had two cardiograms "and both came out real well."

Mrs. Edson said he is expected to be hospitalized five days and is allowed no visitors. Judge Edson, 53, was conducting a hearing in a narcotics case when he was stricken at 3 p.m.

The jurist, a long-time deputy district attorney, was appointed to the Municipal Court in 1964 by then-Gov. Edmund Brown, and was elevated to the Superior Court in 1969 by Governor Reagan.

Millbrae Protests Levitt Plan

"You can't make a proposal attractive enough," one Millbrae citizen told spokesmen for Levitt & Sons last night as the famed East Coast homebuilder tried to outline plans for 24 acres of land west of St. Dunstan's Catholic Church School.

Meeting at Green Hills School, surrounded by the site in question, more than 200 other residents clapped, and cheered.

"We would suggest that the city buy this land and develop it for recreation," said a man in the crowd. They cheered again.

"Few of us were born here," said another man, "all of us came here by choice. Do you think it's possibly because we want to live in a low-density housing area?" He was applauded.

Everytime someone would enter an objection to Levitt & Sons' tentative plan to pick up their option on the surplus land of St. Dunstan's parish, the crowd cheered.

Nearly every time planning consultant Harold Atkinson tried to explain what Levitt & Sons wanted to do, or how, the crowd interrupted or jerred.

Atkinson said plans are admittedly vague, in fact he began by calling his offering a "non-plan," but he said it was expected that 578 housing units could be built on the wooded acres.

These would be housed in 98 townhouses, he said, and 480 garden apartments.

The apartment dwellings, he said, would be two, and three story apartments, over garages.

The crowd groaned.

Atkinson used photoslides of developments in San Mateo and Palo Alto to illustrate "the kind of apartments we are talking about," and the crowd jeered.

He said no new street maintenance costs would result to the city, and the local people interrupted. They challenged his truthfulness, and accused him of "trying to hide the facts."

Atkinson said it is very difficult to see the site because of its surrounding screen of eucalyptus trees, and some of the people laughed and hooted.

After an hour and a half, Mayor Jim O'Connor closed the meeting.

"I think you've got the feeling of the people," he said.

A final resident rose to his feet and presented Atkinson with a small poster drawn by schoolchildren, in crayon.

"Please don't take away our fields," read Atkinson.

REMEMBER MOTHER ON HER DAY

SUNDAY, MAY 9

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD ★ JOHNSON

Mother's Day Is Special For All First Ladies

Attention, dads and husbands: Sunday, May 9, is the day to get the "queen" of the home away from her kitchen ties. It's Mother's Day —when wives and mothers should be treated with extra amounts of love. A fine meal out will put roses in her cheeks and joy in her heart. Many choice restaurants, with a variety of menus, plus numerous clubs featuring entertainment for listening and dancing, are suggested on Bright Lights pages. To avoid any lengthy wait, make reservations now for a HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY!

FESTIVAL SCENE — If one character could actually pour the tea in this Moon Festival scene at the new Chinatown Wax Museum, it would be Cynthia Chan, former Miss Chinatown. The Museum, with thirty-one scenes, is now open to the public.

Hollywood Deal "On The Fire"

Glamorous Laverne Cummings, the ultra-talented chanteuse in the long-running Finocchio's show, has another Hollywood deal on the fire. In addition, he has had feelers for an appearance on Ed Sullivan's Sunday TV Show. This female impersonator really fools his audiences — customers leave the nightclub shaking their heads in disbelief, not only at the realistic makeup and costuming, but the singing voice . . . One of the favorite entrees served at Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City is The Highlander (a New York sirloin) which is most frequently requested by those with extra-hearty appetites. This handsomely decorated restaurant is managed and co-owned by Mary Lou Francis, and Bud and Theresa Urban (the latter travel back to Wisconsin (their home state) to operate the Nippersink Manor Resort near Genoa City during the summer months) . . . Lew Lehr's Steak House, in San Francisco's Marina District, recorded its biggest weekend of business ever, last weekend. Looks like more San Franciscans are discovering Lehr's complete steak dinners — priced from just $5 — plus that convenient free parking nearby.

Hot Pants Party At Putter

Organist Margie Brandon accompanies both amateur and professional singers who congregate at the huge organ bar at Clancy's. Peppy little Margie is known to have the charm of an angel and the voice of a kindly devil and encourages everyone to sing because "It's good for the soul." . . . The gang at The Putter, Burlingame Plaza, is planning a Hot Pants Party for Wednesday, May 19. There is to be dancing, live entertainment and a variety of prizes. Festivities begin at 8 p.m. See ya! . . . Pleasant Company, the new musical group at Deejay's, has been described by one critic as, "the best vocal group in the Bay Area." Originally from the Sacramento area, the group is breaking all house records at the plush Belmont nitery . . . The Greek Taverna in North Beach continues to offer the pleasing sounds of The Trio Orfeo nightly. This Grecian restaurant-night club is the famous spot of local disc jockey-celebrity Don Sherwood . . .

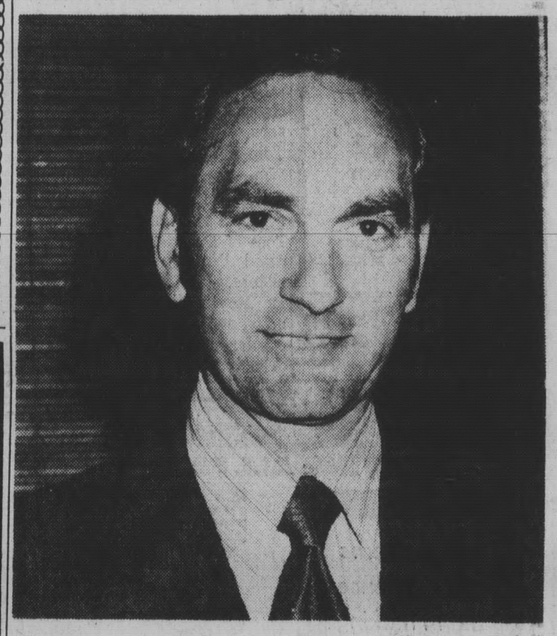
BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Denmark House Under Bartman Management

Mary Knudsen, a vivacious Swedish lady with a penchant for serving home-style cooking, has decided to hang up her pots and pans. After eleven years of providing Peninsula diners with wonderful home cooking and an informal dining atmosphere, Mary has sold her Denmark House. The new owners of the unique Burlingame restaurant (on Primrose Avenue) is the Bartman family, who promise to carry on the same dining traditions. The Bartmans are considering the addition of a few new dishes to the menu, and Mary has promised to lend them a hand during the first few weeks of their ownership. Mary offers sincere thanks to her countless friends and patrons, and invites everyone up to North Lake Tahoe, where she will be opening her Viking Inn for business sometime in June . . . There are many reasons why Nick's at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, is regarded as one of the Bay Area's leading restaurants. To the sophisticated, it is a smart rendezvous to the business man, it provides a luncheon break from a busy schedule; to the art lover, it offers a constantly changing scene of the coastline; to the family, it is a happy gathering place. Good news: The Papagayo Room's "2 for the price of 1" coupon offer has been extended through Friday, May 28.



SKIPPER LUCIEN SABELLA is at the helm of A. Sabella's, which has been a dining landmark on San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf since 1920. The youthful Lucien is the latest of four generations of Sabellas to carry on the tradition of providing fine food and drink for thousands of native San Franciscans and visiting tourists.

New Mesa Musical Group

Great things are being heard about Freedom, a group currently showcased at The Mesa in San Bruno. Bistro owners Walt Raiter and Tommy Morgan report a full house every Friday and Saturday night. Yolanda's Terminal Cafe will be serving both brunch and dinner on Mother's Day. Manager John Hutchinson says the brunch hours will be 10 a.m. to 12 noon; dinners from 12 noon. Reservations and an early dining hour are suggested . . . Drop into Torres Beach Restaurant in Montara and you will be treated to some of the finest South American dishes anywhere in this area. Frank and Fannie Torres prepare these specialties of the house from ancient recipes which capture all the ethnic flavor in genuine style . . . The Mexican food at The Sinaloa cantina in North Beach has become one of the grand treats of this world-famous nitery. These dinners are hailed by both tourist and local cientel as the very best.

President's Vote Of Thanks

The Exposition Fish Grotto has published a beautiful calendar listing all major sporting events during 1971. Manager Augie Rosasco sent one to President Nixon. The White House lost no time in responding with a big vote of thanks for Augie's efforts . . . Dessert tip: English Rice Pudding, as served in the Olde English atmosphere of Atherton's elegant Lord Fletcher Inn. Topped with raspberries, this after-dinner delight is just one of several on the menu . . . Small, medium or large pizzas are the specialties of Enrico Romano, the owner and operator of Romano's Italian restaurant, Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Enrico has been preparing these delicacies for years, and takes great pride in the product . . . Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco, is a favorite gathering spot for Bay Area politicos. Own Chaffee, administrative assistant to Congressman Robert Leggett, hosted a dinner party for out-of-town guests in the Steakery's luxurious Wellington Room.

Stop Over At Park Ave. Motel

If you're headed for Nevada and a weekend of fun and play, your Bright Lighter knows of a great spot to stay. Jerry and Barbara Barber, who operate Park Avenue Tours, also own the Park Avenue Motel, Stateline, Calif. Located just two blocks off Route 50 on the Lake's South Shore, the 30-unit motel has equipped each room with free television and coffee facilities. Some units have kitchens . . . Park Avenue Tours, with four locations in the Bay Area, now offers special refund trips to Reno's Ponderosa Hotel. Depending on the length of stay and the days of the week, various packages and refunds are available. For more information, contact one of Park Avenue Tours' offices . . . The Benjamin Franklin Hotel's Greenwillow Room is THE place to meet for Sunday morning breakfast. Chef Tom Delano's menu is varied and appealing, while his wife, Doris, provides the friendly welcome. You name it, from sports figures to politicians, it's a genial crowd that gathers here any day of the week.

Engraved Certificates For Ken's Customers

You can receive a souvenir gold mine stock certificate by visiting any of Ken's House of Pancakes located in Millbrae, Menlo Park and Mountain View. The handsomely engraved certificate is a real one exactly as used during the glory days of early California gold mines. Bill Watts, organist at Ken's Melody Inn, Los Altos, is the sourdough prospector pictured in the TV commercials sponsored by Ken's House of Pancakes telling about the free offer. The certificate is suitable for framing, gags and almost everything, but don't try to cash it . . . Dave Rasmussen, rancher, VW dealer and owner of The Shadows of San Mateo, has a continent-wide acquaintance among travelers. Several years ago, Rasmussen operated the restaurants at San Francisco International Airport, and many of his old pals, when in town, still drop by The Shadows to say hello if you're making early plans, service on Mother's Day will be from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. . . . Better get to Stuart Anderson's Black Angus in San Mateo early on Mother's Day. Last year the popular steak restaurant was one of the most crowded, but Manager Dave Rollo is convinced that he can accommodate everyone, especially if they come early (they're open from noon). The big attraction is the Black Angus steak, every cut is the same price — $3.95. Salad, potato and ranch bread are included.

MARLANE & THE SWINGIN' DOLLS — These five curvy and talented vocalists provide the entertainment in the luxurious Golden Rooster Lounge of the new Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco, Tuesday through Saturday, from 9 p.m. The group has drawn record lounge crowds wherever it's appeared throughout Southern California and Arizona.

Tell of Brutal Treatment

By BOB FOSTER

The presentation of "This Child Is Rated X" on NBC Sunday night was a thoroughly honest look at the problem of children in many detention homes around the nation. It probably came as quite a shock to a lot of people, especially those in areas where the NBC cameras visited.

Young boys and girls were allowed to tell their tales of brutal treatment in some schools, expecially those in the Southwest.

Parents, unable to control children, were interviewed as to why they voluntarily sent their offspring to "reform" schools. There are an estimated million children arrested each year, and many of them will wind up in jails, county hospitals and such places as the Indiana Boys School and El Paso, Tex. infamus reform schools.

Many of the children picked up for law violations are in fact breaking laws that do not even exist for adults, such as running away from home, truancy, curfew violations.

The hour, an enlightening hour, long over-due, was narrated by Edwin Newman. He told the story vividly.

Martin Carr, the director-writer, spent seven months investigating juvenile justice around the nation but decided that the problems in Indiana, Illinois and Texas were the most critical.

We're sure that this sort of thing goes on around the nation. In fact, ever since high school days I've heard of such things. However the situation is not really universal. Much has been done to require a more human handling of young people, but, of course, not nearly enough. Young Mr. Carr deserves to take a look at other states and areas where things are being done differently.

Position Affirmed

In reaffirming their position favoring an Army Corps of Engineers Colma Creek flood control project, South San Francisco councilmen yesterday stipulated they do so providing the Corps' project stays within the existing channel.

Along the lines of flood control, the councilmen also adopted a resolution urging passage of two pieces of legislation that in essence call for changing the formula allowing the state to pay its share toward a federal flood control project.

Before Governor Ronald Reagan froze the state participation in an austerity move the state had been paying 20 per cent. The federal government paid the remaining 80 per cent in such projects.

In a letter from Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald to Congressman Paul N. McCloskey, Fitzgerald said the county supervisors will ask the California Flood Control Conference to endorse funding of $60,000 for the Colma Creek project.

Earth Week Proclaimed

May 9 through 15 has been proclaimed Earth Week in San Bruno. During that week the Crestmoor High School Sierra Club plans to plant trees for a new community park.

Council members agreed to the proposal. However, the working out of an exact park site remains. The area is to be located somewhere within the bounds of Crestmoor Drive, Madison Avenue, Rosewood Drive and Whitman Way.

Mike Sharkey of the Crestmoor High School Sierra Club said the club members would work on the parksite all day May 13, assuming they can get together with the city on an exact site.

New Breed Filmmaker

By BARBARA BLADEN

The new breed of filmmakers happily includes women and not necessarily the intellectual (Susan Sontag), European (Agnes Varda), arty (Mai Zetterling) types. Along comes a shy, quiet actress Barbara Loden with a simple story based somewhat on her own experiences in growing up and put it onto film.

It takes more than a dream to make that come true in these days of complicated financing, unions, bureaucracy and pressures. But in her naivete, the wife of producer-director Elia Kazan created "Wanda" and walked off with the International Critics' Prize at the 1970 Venice Film Festival. It also rated praise in showings at the London and San Francisco Film Festivals.

Having written, directed and starred in it, miss Loden is just now realizing its impact on the public. She never expected it to have theatrical release, thought it might attract interest in colleges. It is currently playing at the Bridge Theatre.

"I wote it nine years ago," the soft-spoken, almost shy actress explained," sold it once, then got it back when no one could raise the money to make it and began thinking maybe I could handle the role myself as an actress. When I couldn't find a director, I took that on too."

She'd left Marion, No. Carolina after high school and became a New York model at 17, then a Copa Girl and worked with the late Ernie Kovacs on his television show. Elia Kazan directed her first two film acting jobs, "Wild River," and "Splendor In the Grass" 15 years ago but it wasn't until four years ago that they married.

Miss Loden made her mark in the theatrical world as Maggie in Arthur Miller's "After The Fall" on Broadway and won the Antoinette Perry Award.

"I was a member of the Lincoln Center Repertory company and very pregnant when I met Arthur Miller. We talked and I told him the story of my life. No one knew what his play was about then, its themes or responsibilities. A week later I had my second baby and they cast me as Maggie. Then when I read the script I realized that much in my life was similar to Marilyn Monroe's."

"She had been dead for four years and it would have been death for an actress to try to recreate someone so fresh in the public mind so I just played myself."

Her Wanda character is a wayward girl who drifts into a relationship with a middle-aged bank robber portrayed by Michael Higgins. Shot in 16mm color and blown up to 35mm on a ten week shooting schedule in the coal mining country around Scranton, Pa. Production costs were in the low budget category of $115,000.

How much influence was her famous director-husband?

"He gave me emotional support by moving to Carbondale, Pa. while I was working. He questioned me a lot about what I was trying to do, so that my thinking and planning was organized. And he gave me intellectual stimulation. right now he is working on a book in Tuscon, Arizona and won't discuss it even with me."

"I'd like to write another script. I'm not a person who wants to act for the sake of acting. I'm very limited and can be very bad if I'm doing something I don't believe in."

"I know now you can make films for less money.

Crestmoor Shift Favored

A weekly time block scheduling plan, developed over the past two years, was approved conditionally for Crestmoor High School last night.

Trustees of the San Mateo Union High School District were unanimous in their approval of the San Bruno school's program.

But, they stipulated that their green light is subject to their approval of information that they have requested about financing, evaluation and scheduling.

That information is expected to be presented at the board's next meeting. If is is approved as expected the plan would start in September.

The Crestmoor plan evolved from a 1969 workshop, where concern over course variety, humanization and flexibility of class scheduling was expressed.

"The opening and closing of the school day is restrictive . . . the development of block studies would avoid the boring nature of daily repetition" was one of the quotes coming from the workshop.

Administrative and faculty staffs, student communication groups and the P-TA Executive Board were involved in the study according to a report presented to trustees last night at Capuchino High, also in San Bruno.

The block plan will not grant the free time to students that has been noted in modular or flexible scheduling used by other Peninsula schools.

Courses have been arranged in time blocks of single or double periods which are to meet on a Monday-Wednesday-Friday Tuesday-Thursday or a daily basis.

The school's report pointed out that study indicated that some classes required the present time segments, while others required fewer meeting days with single or double time blocks.

The program will have minimal affect on freshmen students, school officials said, because they usually take non-elective courses which require daily instruction.

Courses such as English, foreign language, mathematics, typing, accounting, band, chorus and geography would be among those offered during a single period daily.

Arts, crafts, foods, biology, chemistry, physics, metal, wood shops, and physical education would be among the double period courses taught on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Baseball Stats Reveal Leaders

Golden Gate Conference baseball statistics for the first two of the three round season illustrate one good reason the Bulldogs are leading the league — pitcher Joe Serena.

The 5-7, 150 pound frosh from San Mateo High tops all GGC hurlers with his perfect 6-0 record through the first 14 games and a 1.06 E.R.A. Another Bulldog frosh, Larry Hartmann, from Aragon, is sixth in league pitching with a 2.60 E.R.A. and 2-1 won-loss record despite being troubled by a sore shoulder most of the season.

CSM soph outfielder Dave Fanucchi, from Serra High and San Bruno, shares the league home run lead with three others with his pair of round trippers.

And Bulldog shortstop Steve Bissett is off to a successful defense of his GGC runs scored and stolen base titles. The 1970 league player of the year and a former San Mateo High star, Bissett has tallied 17 runs and stolen seven bases so far in 1971.

Leading Matean hitter is Tom Buckley, who is nudging the .400 mark with a .391 average, fourth best in the league behind pacesetter Joel Elderkin (.426) of Chabot. Buckley is a frosh from El Camino High.

Teaming with second baseman Buckley and Bissett in the CSM infield are regular first baseman Norm Freschet (Aragon grad) and third baseman Vic Prieto of San Mateo High, both freshmen.

And Fanucchi is currently outslugging his more honored outfield teammates — returning All-GGC stars Lou Lodigiani of South San Francisco and Skip Conley (Burlingame grad from Foster City).

Single Room School Plan in Daly City

Jefferson Elementary School District administrators will determine how many parents of seventh graders want them in a single room program next year.

Most seventh and eighth gradersin Daly City attend either Benjamin Franklin or Colma Intermediate Schools, where they change rooms and teachers nearly every class period.

Some parents have said that they do want their children to attend the intermediate schools, particularly Ben Franklin, at the seventh grade level.

The have favored a continuation of the same type of self-contained class structure as offered in the lower grades: usually one teacher, perhaps two, with only limited room changing.

The district has had two such classes this year, at Garden Village in unincorporated Colma and Daniel Webster in Daly City.

Both might be discontinued under new plans for next year in which trustees are moving to convert Fernando Rivera into a intermediate school to relieve Franklin School congestion. The self-contained classes would go to Franklin, across a playground and a street from Garden Village.

Frank L. Greenwood, the district superintendent, said retention of the self-contained program might be possible if there were sufficient parental interest.

The class probably would not be limited to Garden Village of Daniel Webster if sufficient numbers of parents wanted them at other schools as well.

That was the basis for the program last year. Dr. Vinton Stratton, associate superintendent for instruction, said yesterday that the same letter on the subject sent parents last year probably would be used again.

Park Site Is Acquired

Acquisition by the city of South San Francisco of a 1.3-acre park site at San Felipe Avenue and Camaritas Avenue was approved Wednesday by the County Planning Commission. The county has budgeted $19,462 to cover 25 per cent of the cost. The city is paying the same amount and the total is to be matched by federal funds.

Member Drive Has Good Start

The San Francisco Boys' Club Alumni Association began its membership drive with a basketball game against the Ernest Ingold Branch Unlimited Basketball Team Saturday.

All former members of the San Francisco Boys' Club, 21 years of age and older are welcome to join this association, which is being formed as an auxiliary to the San Francisco Boys' Club.

The $5.00 membership dues will go toward buying equipment for the boys. Alumni will receive a lapel pin and membership card for their donation.

The Association plans to hold one major fund raising activity a year, one social event a year and one business meeting a year.

For more information call 221-0790.

Young Soccer Players Wanted

Signups for Westlake International Soccer Club teams in Daly City and San Francisco are taken each Saturday at Westlake Park in Daly City.

A spokesman for the club said youths six to 12 years of age are eligible to compete on the various teams.

Westmoor Roundup

Westmoor's Tennis team came up on the short end of a 4-3 score to a tough Washington squad, April 26, at Dupont courts.

Westmoor, playing without their third and fourth men, Bob Essa and Steve Nelson, gave Washington, rated as the top team in the city, along with Lowell, a good fight for the money. Pat Cotter defeated Winslow of Washington 6-4, 4-6, 6-4 to help the Ram cause. But Washington took all the other four single matches to win. George Miram and Emil Rehfeld, along with Martin Kludjian and Anthony Michaelis, took both doubles matches for Westmoor to make the final score 4-3 Washington.

Perhaps they are mere closets and walls in other schools, but art students of Westmoor High School have transformed the bare walls around the Music and Art Departments into a creative project.

Working on their own time, the art pupils have converted walls into canvases for their wild designs. On a large wall in a storage room there inhabits a surrealistic landscape, depicting both day and night over rolling hills. One end of the colorful wall is a mod Mr. Sun, and on the other end, darkness, and the stars of night. In between are multi-colored rainbows, and bolts of lightning.

Smaller walls contain wild star designs. Students have made a concerted effort to keep the murals in good condition.

Westmoor's first-place frosh-soph baseball team beat second-place South City 4-2 last Tuesday, on the Rams' field.

After being rained out in their first meeting, and then tieing 3-3 in 11 innings on their make-up date, South City and Westmoor finally got in a regulation game. Westmoor got all the runs they needed in the second inning when John Hart and Lou Medrano walked. Lance Judd then ground out to the pitcher, moving Hart and Medrano to second and third bases. Mark Racette walked, loading the bases. After pitcher Bab Payne struck out for the second out of the inning, Chuck Collondrez went up to the plate and on a full count hit a deep drive to left field for a grand slam home run.

South City got both of their runs in the third when McKeon led off with a walk, stole second base and went to third on a ground out. Hendley then hit a solid line drive to rightfielder Chris Welsh for the second out. Eckstein then ripped a solid single to center, scoring McKeon. Eckstein stole second base, ent to third on an error and scored on Simon's single, ending the game's scoring.

Bob Payne pitched a four-hitter for the Rams, while Terry Hendley pitched a three-hitter for the Braves.

Westmoor junior Eric Bogatin was selected to participate in a Student Science Training Program at Ball State University, Muncie, Indiana.

This pre-college program will last for five weeks, beginning on June 10. Concepts of nuclear and electron energy levels will be included.

Eric was Westmoor's top scorer in the National Math Exam and is presently enrolled in Advanced Algebra-Trigonometry, Math Analysis, Chemistry and Physiology.

Eric applied for admission to this course and was selected to receive full payment for room, board and activity costs.

Westmoor Ram golf team played the South City Warriors and the El Camino Colts in a three way match April 27 at California Country Club. Rams were victors in both matches, winning by scores of 16-2 and 17-1.

Rams were led by Ray Pellegrini, as he beat South City's Mark Hillsinger in a close match shooting a 76 and winning 2 up. Dave Lonich and Pat O'Neil checked in with 79s, as did Hillsinger over the windy layout.

Rams play the Oceana Sharks this week.

Machines will be taking over Westmoor May 7, as the entire student body will have a look at voting machines.

The student executive board introduced the idea to give the students a chance to see how the machines work and to acquaint the students with the voing machines in preparation for the 18 year old vote.

Each class will have a voting machine placed in the Little Theatre and the students will vote on the election of student body officers, cheerleaders and pep girls, as well as on ratification of the constitution. In the fall the machines will return to vote on class officers.

Check off system will be used as in National elections to assure no one of voting twice. The student body will take care of the cost of $13.50 per machine, which is the same cost as the old method of blackening IBM cards.

PAT MOLINARI'S Shropshire won the reserve championship in the recent Junior Grand National at Daly City's Cow Palace. Miss Molinari, whose lamb placed fourth in judging, is in her fourth year as a member of the South San Francisco 4-H Club.

Falcons Finish Unbeaten

As prelude to bigger track acquisition, Crestmoor High School today reigns as dual meet champion of the Mid Peninsula League, having survived surprise in regal fashion.

Crestmoor achieved such status yesterday with 74½-60½ victory over the upset-minded San Mateo Bearcats, a team that gave the San Bruno entry its best competition of the season to date.

By virtue of the win, however, Crestmoor finished its dual meet season with a 6-0 record and six ensuing points toward the league championship. To that total, the Falcons hope to add three more points that will accrue to the winner of the MPL title meet on May 13.

While the margin of Crestmoor's victory may seem large, it represents only a difference of seven points, each one of which the Bearcats relinquished only after some torrid competition.

Crestmoor, for intance, was doped to win the horizontal jumps, but the Bearcats swept each of them behind Dennis Haysbert, who had respective leaps of 20-1 and 43-5½. San Mateo also took the mile relay and got seasonal bests from Roger Krakow, who ran a 4:38.3 mile, Dale Curry, who got off a 161-1½ discus toss and Rob Peterson, whose 46-5 shot put mark was exceeded by the Falcons' Steve Lorenzo on the last throw, which went 47 feet.

The Falcons may have settled the outcome early when they came back from a deficit to win the 440 relay on a great anchor leg by Chuck Bommarito, Northern California's classiest prep sprinter. Bommarito pulled it out on the last exchange before taking the sprints in 10.3 and 22.7 on San Mateo's slow track to account for three of the Falcons' 10 first places. Crestmoor also got a splendid 880 triumph from Gary Hicklin, who clocked 1:58.7.

In other MPL dual meets, Hillsdale beat Mills, 89-45, and Burlingame routed Aragon, 101-33.

At Hillsdale, Mills ran into repetitive double trouble as perpetrated by the Knights' versatile foursome of Terry Webb, Dan Clark, John Merslich, and Rob Dean.

Webb, who also finished second in the high jump, won the high hurdles in 15.2 and took the pole vault at 14 feet even. Clark came up with an MPL best when he triple-jumped 44-4 for a new school record after winning the long jump at 21-9. Merslich won the 440 in 53.5 and the mile run in 4:36.5 while Dean was a 48-8 winner of the shot put and took the low hurdles in 21.1.

The Vikings' best effort was a 6-foot high jump victory by Bill Kahn. On the track, Mills' Jeff Cricks won the sprints in respective times of 10.3 and 23.5.

Burlingame's annihilation of Aragon was nearly total as the Panthers won 14 of the 16 events, demonstrating quality along the way which bodes well for their success later this season.

The Kolesnikow brothers, Andy and Pete, suitably came through with double wins for the Panthers. Andy clocked 15.4 and 20.4 in winning both hurdle races while Pete ran to a 10.6 clocking in the 100 and long-jumped 19-6½.

Burlingame's best track efforts, however, came from its distance strength as Dave Montoya clocked 9:47.1 for the two mile; Hank Van Arkel ran to a splendid 1:58.7 victory in the 880, and Dave Stiles, a freshman, took the mile in 4:34.5. Other Panther firsts were authored by Dan Krupke, a 50.9 winner of the 440, and weightman Mark Scoggins, who put the shot 47-10.

Bellarmine Beats Pads

Serra High School's track team dropped to .500 in the West Catholic Athletic League dual meet standings April 27 with an 82-54 loss to old rival Bellarmine.

Tom Banducci was the Padres' top performer with a 52-5 victory in the shot put. Serra also got a 2:01.3 half mile from Jack Wandro in suffering its second loss in four meets.

The Padres will compete against Mitty and St. Ignatius Tuesday at home.

Warriors Awaiting Big Dual

With the day of reckoning rapidly approaching, South San Francisco High School track coach Pete Giachetti was the epitome of guarded optimism yesterday.

His Warrior thinclads had just won their 31st dual meet in a row, 103-33, over North Peninsula League opponent Terra Nova but he was understandably looking ahead to next week's crucial with Mid-Peninsula League powerhouse Crestmoor.

"It will take a real solid effort in every event if we are to get by the Falcons," Giachetti noted. "Remember, they were the ones three years ago that we lost to just before this streak started. It's something the whole team has been looking forward to all year."

The Warriors spent enough time concentrating on yesterday's foe to break the century point mark for the fourth time this year. Sprinter Loren Gava came through with personal bests in the 100 and 220 for a double while Gordon Snyder ran the best 440 race in the NPL this year with a 52.2 clocking.

Tony Sotoa ran a 10.2 century, his best time for a second in that event, and came through with a double blue ribbon effort in the long jump and the low hurdles.

Jefferson Nine Routs Regents

Jefferson High School moved up into a tie for third in the North Peninsula League baseball race yesterday afternoon after downing visiting Serramonte, 10-2.

Ken Smith started for Jeff and got the win, allowing the Regents six hits while striking out of nine and walking two.

Neville Wall came in from right field to relieve Smith in the last inning, and retired the Regents on nine pitches. Wall also made a considerable contribution to the Indians' 12-hit barrage getting a double and two singles in three times at bat.

Warriors Improve Their NPL Lead

The madding crowd is not far behind South San Francisco High School in the North Peninsula League baseball standings, but the Warriors have gotten a little breathing room.

South S.F. downed visiting Westmoor 5-1 April 27 to pull out a full game lead over Half Moon Bay — and the way things have been lately a one game lead is a luxury.

In other NPL action, El Camino upset host Jefferson 5-1; Terra Nova ended visiting Serramonte's four game win streak, 8-3; and Half Moon Bay topped visiting Oceana 4-2.

Westmoor only scored once off South City hurler Pete Enea, and that tally was unearned. Enea, now 4-0, struck out seven and walked one while Pat Tolentino was having a field day at the plate.

Tolentino had two RBI's, two on a fourth inning home run.

El Camino's Dave Bias knocked in two runs with a hard single to help preserve Colt hurler Rick Green's two hitter at Jefferson. The loss knocked Jeff all the way back to fourth place.

Terra Nova moved to within a half game of second, taking advantage of seven Serramonte errors for five unearned runs on the way to the 8-3 win.

Winning pitcher John Racanelli (3-1) struck out five and allowed just four hits.

Half Moon Bay hurler Frank Reyes (4-0) served up seven walks to Oceana, but held the Sharks to six hits while Tom Salet, Tim Buckley and Ron Stockman were banging out the winning runs.

Tennis Teams Blank Rivals

The Mill High School tennis team, with second place in the Mid-Peninsula League standings assured, downed San Mateo, 7-0, April 27.

In other matches, Capuchino similarly blanked Hillsdale 7-0 as did Aragon over Crestmoor.

Mills has lost only twice — to league champ Burlingame.

First singles man Ross Binder led the sweep.

Tim Sunderland and Bill Eliopoulos led Aragon over visiting Crestmoor; the two teams have split for the season.

Singles men Jim Alley and Charley Monahan and the doubles team of John Tragoutsis and newcomer Pete Farkus paced Cap. The Mustangs have cinched third place behind Mills as the season draws near a close.

America's Pastime

Is baseball really America's favorite pasttime? Sure it is, but that statement is no way denigrates the other big three American spectator sports—professional football, basketball and horse racing.

A contradiction you say? Not at all, not if you analyize the phrase, "favorite pasttime," heavy emphasis on pasttime.

Baseball is the most leisurely of all American games, and when one goes out to the park of an afternoon, he goes to relax, neither knowing nor caring when the day's event will end, as he knows (approximately) in football, basketball and horse racing. The average fan goes to a baseball game to literally pass time. Nobody is foolish enough to go to a baseball game when he has a later appointment to keep, or when he must be home for dinner at a certain time, or must make airlines connections.

The purposes of football, basketball and horse racing are, for the average fan, far different than baseball, and don't fit the category of "pasttime."

Football, though, is rightly "America's Favorite Violence," Basketball "America's Favorite Frenzy," horse racing, "America's Favorite Waste of Money," or "Favorite Gamble," if the former is too offensive.

WE CAN'T UNDERSTAND why even a few supposedly genuine "baseball men" are for such Charley Finley-like innovations as designated pinch-hitters and pinch-runners.

Of all sports, baseball requires the most versatile athletic ability, and possibly the least specialization. Take away this uniqued ness and you remove much "inside baseball" (like, do you let the pitcher hit with your team trailing by one run in the late innings if you have a man in scoring position and two outs, or pinch-hit, and allow a weak relief staff to handle the enemy's power-hitting segment of the line-up next inning, when the top of your lineup will be opening up the following inning, etc.), and even more of the charm of the good old leisurely, thinking man's game. And besides, what would baseball do for humor without the pitcher who swings a bat like a sissy and the led-bottomed catcher trying to go from first to third on a triple?

So you modern golfers think you have it tough if the golf cart speaks down? If you didn't see the recent Sporting News which carried a reprint of an 1889 St. Louis Globe-Democrat story introducing the American sporting public to a "popular Scottish pasttime," known as, 'the game of golf," allow us to offer a capsule review of the piece.

For openers, the illustrations and text indicted that drivers were almost exact duplicated of our present-day baseball bats, and that the clubs called "spoons" were just that, spoons at the end of a long handle, the purpose of which was to literally scoop the balls out of the homes, or even the rough.

And in those days, it wasn't the lazy man's sport it is today, because skill wasn't based on dexterity with the clubs, but upon speed afoot and conditioning.

The object of the game in those days wasn't low number of strokes, but, "who (ever) gets his ball in the hole at which they began first wins the game." In other words, the player, right along with his "servant" (caddy), had to roun around the whole course at full trot, trying to knock his ball into the crudely dug holes as fast as possible.

As the article states so succinctly, "No dude can play it, because brawn and vigor are essential qualities—the players have servants and sometines run many miles."

Could you measure up to the following suggested physical qualifications for the game?;

'Given a strong pair of lungs, firm muscles upon the legs, and a healty desire to emulate these he had better stay out of the sport, for no man who cannot run several miles without stopping can make any kind of respectable appearance in the game."

As foreign as the game thus described in that ancient Globe-Democrat may sound, the following quotes from the story should serve to prove that certain elements of any game remain the same through time immemorial:

"(Spectators) as a rule . . . stand far off the nature of the implements employed is such that a ball may be driven in a very contrary direction to that which the player wishes and therefore, may fall among the spectators and cause some temporary discomfort."

"The principal qualifications for the game are steady nerve and eye and good judgment of force, with an added ability to avoid knolls and sand pits . . ."

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO we wrote of a fund-raising dinner for ex-flyweight champ Fidel La Barba in Los Angeles, and this is to report, via promoter and MC of the affair, Billy Mahoney, that it was a financial and artistic success.

Besides raising about $3,000 for La Barba, diners got to ogle at such ex-champs as Jackie Fields, Jimmy McLarnin, Gorilla Jones, and other one-time top-ranked fist throwers such as Mushy Callahan, Jimmy Carter, Ritchie Lemos, Joe Glick, Newsboy Brown, Earl Mastro, Abie Bain, Abie Miller, Willie Bean, Clarence Henry, Goldie Hess, George Levine, Sammy Offerman, Johnny Foster, Jack Powell, Frankie Garcia.

Westmoor's Spring Festival Successful

Westmoor High School's annual Spring Festival presented a myriad of artistic, practical, and informative displays, coupled with adoration and excitement generated by the car show.

The festival ran from April 27-29. Throughout all three days, throngs of students and teachers made their way through the numerous displays, dodging students from neighboring elementary schools who got their first taste of a high school.

Displays were set up in the girls' gym and included the efforts of some 15 clubs, classes, and organizations. Most of the booths were set up along the perimeter of the gym with the various creations of the art students filling out the interior of the auditorium.

The art department, which in itself presented many varied displays, was the largest contributor to the festival. The front and backs of two self-made walls were covered with pictures that ran the gamut from pencil drawings to pastels. Numerous sculptures and ceramic works decorated two other booths.

The largest painting that was exhibited was the fantasy-like mural which was painted on one entire wall in music alley by four girls from the Art department. The mural depicted happy children romping beneath a cherry sun near a castle complete with swans in the moat.

Two of the other larger displays were presented by the Horseman's Association and the Ski Club. The former provided an informative look at those things that are associated with the club; saddles and other riding necessities, various types of grains, literature on horses, and some genuine country and western music. The booth presented by the Ski club was nearly overflowing with skies, assorted skiing equipment, the necessary types of apparel, and pictures of famous ski resorts.

Westmoor's shops occupied four booths. The woodshop display presented such items as a gunrack and a table. The auto shop booth contained displays which illustrated the workings of a car's ignition system. The electronics class presented an oscilloscope and an audio generator.

Highlighting the display of the Metal Shop were metal circular stairs used for reaching the upper level of an A frame summer cabine and a decorative wrought iron table and chair set which had ceramic tile for its table surface and bright yellow fabric for the chair seats.

The most vocal display was the music department's Girls glee club, as well as individual performances on various instruments by other students.

Westmoor's three literary publications, the Rambler, the school's yearbook, the Rampage, the newpaper, and the Ramifications, the literary magazine, all presented informative displays.

Old annuals and pictures were on display in the Rambler booth. This booth was one of the most crowded throughout the three-day affair. Members of Westmoor's Journalism class, who produce the Rampage, presented a display illustrating the various steps that go toward putting out the paper, while Ramifications presented the literary talents of its contributors.

The Home Economics Department's booth was resplendent with ware of its students, ranging from dresses and their patterns to kitchen utensils, while in the homemaking classrooms, fondue Greek meatballs were served.

The Business department's display had various members of that department illsustrating their skill with the typewriter and adding machine. It also presented informat on concerning secretarial work and other related information. In the business machines classroom an IBM MCST machine, which programs information and then typewrites it, was demonstrated.

On the last day of the festival, the cars, dune buggies, and motorcycles, of various Westmoor students were displayed. Entrants were judged for neatness, cleanliness, mechanical condition, originality, paint condition, and safety.

On each of the three categores, a first place trophy and second and third place ribboons were awarded the winners.

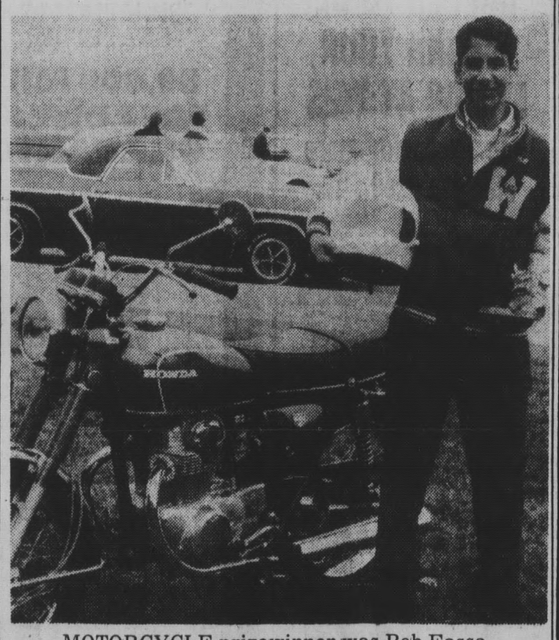
In the automobile category, Pete Makras was presented the first-place trophy with John George and Bob Woodworth taking second and third, respectively.

Winner of the dune-buggy competion was Jim Woodworth as Ray Schnap and Bob Woodworth earned the ribbons.

The best motorcycle was entered by Bob Eassa with Jeff Williams being awarded second place and Mike Galbraith gaining third place honors.

SKI CLUB booth is attended by Debbie Vocke, left, and Lynn Reynolds during Westmoor High School's annual Spring Festival.

JIM WOODWORTH and his winning dune buggy.



MOTORCYCLE prizewinner was Bob Eassa.

Swim Program

An adult fitness program from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. is being offered men and women in South San Francisco, at the minicipal pool.

Jazz Band Wins Honors

College of San Mateo's 22-member Jazz Band, conducted by Dick Crest, won the first place award at the Pacific Coast Regional competition of the American College Jazz Festival at San Fernando Valley State College, in competition against 13 college and university bands from California and Nevada.

Photo Display

The U.S. Army will present a photo display at Tanforan Park Shopping Center in San Bruno through May 15.

The exhibit depicts Army Chapliancy history from World War I to the present. Ten color photographic reproductions by well-known American artists, each showing a scene in our nation's past in which U.S. Army Chaplains took part in their traditional role as source of strength to American fighting men.

Ryan, Kent Debate Voucher Plan Merit

For North County Assemblyman Leo Ryan it ought to be tried because it's something new, a possible alternative to the present system.

For San Mateo County Superintendent of Schools Dr. J. Russell Kent he has so many questions about specifics of the plan he can't even venture a guess as to what might happen if the program was actually put into effect.

Both men were talking about the controversial voucher system, a plan whereby state money can be allocated directly to the students and the families themselves so that they can pick the schools (public or private) they want the children to attend.

The debate was part of a dinner meeting held by the San Mateo County School Board Association at the Brentwood Lodge, South San Francisco, on Thursday evening.

The results of the debate were inconclusive.

For one thing, the thrust of Ryan's remarks may have been lost on the audience. Contrary to the feeling by some in the audience, Ryan, who has a bill concerning a voucher plan experiment for no more than four districts in the state, is not now advocating a mass movement away from the present school setup. He is in favor of some extremely careful testing of the concept.

In fact, he is supporting some other bills which seek to try some new methods of school finance as well.

"I am not for the voucher system," he said. "We only have ideas right now. We want to try it because it's there. Because it may be an alternative. The taxpayers are fed up with education and they are turning it out.

"We just can't turn away from alternatives. I want to see some competition in education. We have to give the parents some choices. And, the more I see of this hysteria about the voucher system the more curious I get about it."

Kent said he wasn't so sure. He said the whole idea was so vague, so hazy, at this time that it was difficult for him to be able to pinpoint what the plan would do or not do for the schools.

"The voucher system can't be debated yet," he said. "It's an idea not a plan. The theory is incomplete. I want to examine a specific plan. What we have here right now is a dream castle, not yet engineered. I need a working drawing before I can evaluate it."

Kent listed some of the serious questions he has about the plan. Among them were: How does one define a school; how will standards for both private and public schools be set up (or eliminated); how can segregation be prevented; how will schools limit their enrollment; who is going to decide who gets into a school and who doesn't; how are private schools going to be controlled as to the propagation of their own philosophies and biases.

While admitting that "no one can defend the present system," Kent offered that, from the information he has now, he could not support the voucher system either.

Ryan, who parried many questions from the audience in general, philosophical terms (since hard data on the voucher system is both scant and skimpy at this time), said the point of his bill is to at least take a look at what the voucher plan might be able to do.

He asked the people to support it because, he said, anything that holds out a glimmer of hope for the troubled educational field ought to be examined.

Central to his thinking is the concept of remembering that "each kid has the right to the same level of funding," Ryan said.

He pointed out that, in his Assembly district, there are children who are not getting a fair shake because of the lack of funds in their school district. He noted that students in the Laguna Salada Elementary School District in Pacifica must suffer under an extremely low tax base while those in Hillsborough are in just the opposite condition.

This situation, he noted, is intolerable.

Is the voucher system the answer? Neither Ryan nor Kent knew for sure.

How Safe Is Marina Lagoon?

Are there sharks in the Marina Lagoon? Why is it polluted? How did the lagoon get there? Is it safe for swimming?

John C. Williams, biology instructor at College of San Mateo, recently fielded these questions by 26 curious students at Lakeshore School. It didn't seem to make any difference that the students were only six and seven years old. The questions were generated by the youngsters' interest in their environment.

From their studies in Mrs. Mary Kane's first and second-grade class, the students already knew quite a bit about the four-mile-lagoon that flows just east of their school and separates San Mateo from Foster City and Mariner's Island. The children had noted that it was polluted, that at times the water level is higher than at other times, and that at some points it is loaded with seaweed, or algae.

They also had many fears about the lagoon — of sharks, bloodsuckers and even the plant life which, through local folklore, had assumed fearsome powers. Mrs. Kane, who taught ecology in last year's summer school, encouraged the children to research the lagoon through library materials and class discussions.

Williams was then invited to visit the class because of his work on the Marina Lagoon task group, a project of the CSM Resource Mobilization Center, which produced a detailed analysis of the lagoon and made recommendations for algae control.

The college study group discovered that the lagoon serves as a drainage ditch but that the pollution is greater than city officials had suspected, and many improvements are needed if the lagoon is to serve also as a swimming, boating and recreation area.

A little bit of algae is good for the fish, Williams explained to the Lakeshore class, but in the lagoon there's too much of it. Then the lagoon begins to die, and it becomes gooey and smelly.

What else makes the lagoon polluted? All of the street gutters in San Mateo, more than 100 of them empty into the lagoon. People who drop paper and other debris on the street don't realize that eventually it is swept into a street drain and is washed into the lagoon.

What can you do to keep the lagoon clean? Williams asked the class. The children responded instantly, "Don't put anything in the gutter." Williams also told the class that Marina Lagoon, originally known as Seal Slough, was a tidal meander when the present area was a marshland. When homes and schools were built, a dam was constructed at the north and south ends, and the lagoon was dug out to form a flood control drainage ditch. "Without the lagoon, all of this area would be under six feet of water at high tide," Williams said.

There are no bloodsuckers in the lagoon, he noted, much to the relief of some of the students, because they live only in fresh water, and "you can see that this water is not fresh."

Welfare Savings Seen If Reagan Plan Voted

San Mateo County will profit by a net saving of $1.1 million a year if the Reagan welfare proposals are enacted, State Director of Social Welfare Robert B. Carleson yesterday told the annual meeting of the Governmental Research Council of San Mateo County, at the Hyatt House, Burlingame.

Carleson listed savings of $750,000 from state payments of Aid to the Blind and Old Age Security grants; $700,000 from staffing and payments by the state of Aid to the Disabled grants and $700,000 from state paying the cost of eligibility determination in Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

That comes to a total of $2,150,000 in savings to San Mateo County taxpayers, he said. From this, would be deducted the approximately million-dollar gain in the county's share of grants in Aid to Families with Dependent Children. The net gain to the County thus would be $1.1 million.

"At the same time, the truly needy families in San Mateo County will be getting increased grants through a more just and equitable distribution of the available funds," Carleson said.

In addition to centralizing eligibility and grant determinations, he said, the State Department of Social Welfare will establish a contract administration system with the counties under the Reagan plan. It would provide assurance individual counties maintain tighter eligibility standards.

Citing that the annual total public assistance and Medi-Cal expenditures in California (local, state and federal) will reach $3,500,000,000 next year, Carleson said that two thirds — over $2.3 billion — is for cash welfare grants and their administration.

Counties pay 18 per cent of this, the state 32 per cent and the federal government, 50 per cent, he said.

Park Dog Ban Is Delayed

San Mateo's proposed city park dog ban ordinance prompted a howl of protest Monday. Its adoption was delayed to July 19.

Meanwhile, the measure will be referred to the Park and Recreation Commission for public hearing and recommendation. It was suggested the commission hold a night meeting for the purpose.

At the same time Park Superintendent Alan Hammer told the Council that to quell some of the outcry, certain park areas could be specified for the walking of dogs on leashes.

The Council has received a number of letters opposing the would prohibit animals, notably dogs on a leash, from being walked in city parks. Guide dogs for the blind would be excepted.

Councilman W. L. Burkdall suggested the delay commenting he has been surprised and impressed with the amount of public difference of opinion expressed.

Gustave A. Wolfe of 158 Arbor Lane was critical of the proposed prohibition. He said for 12 years he has walked his dog in East Hillsdale park. It is called "hidden park" by some now and used by "the marijuana smoking and drinking set," Wolfe alleged.

Youth Hurt in Accident

A Woodside High School boy was in critical condition in Sequoia Hospital today with a fractured skull and other injuries suffered in a cycling accident Sunday.

Highway Patrolman Richard Robbins said the victim, Richard Pattee, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Pattee Jr., of 970 Altschul Avenue, Menlo Park, was injured at 3:30 p.m. while riding his bicycle on Skywood Way in the Skylonda area.

The youth, the officer said, was going down a steep hill at an estimated 40 miles an hour when the bike struck a "speed bump," a concrete welt across the road to keep speeds down. Young Pattee was thrown head-first against a tree, Robbins said.

Shots Fired

Two deputy sheriffs reported that a man took at least five shots at them Monday as they were walking up to a house to investigate a disturbing of the peace complaint.

Deputies David Baross and Robert Butler said they were walking toward a house in the 2600 block of Illinois Street in East Palo Alto when they heard several shots. They reported they could see the silhouette of a man standing in the middle of the street firing a handgun.

THE MARQUEE

By Barbara Bladen

Berkeley's Magic Theater has evolved as a showcase for new young playwrights. Founder John Lion feels that "since no money is involved (in terms of profitably operating a theater), the only cohesive factor is the excitement of doing a new work in the blind faith that sometime, somehow we'll affect how people think."

Into the triangle dominated by poet Michael McClure, whose works are being done exclusively by the company since his brush with courts and critics with 'The Beard,' has come 25-year-old Nick Kazan.

The son of writer-director Elia Kazan began writing one act plays as a student at Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania. His "Ballgame" had been performed on campus followed by "Beau," now on a double Kazan bill in Berkeley with "Straganoff."

McClure's "The Growl" and James Schevill's "Oppenheimer's Chair" fill out the evenings, Thursdays through Sundays.

With seven plays in his pocket and a living wage coming from writing free lance magazine pieces, he came to San Francisco one and a half years ago.

"I'd sent 'Ballgame' to American Conservatory Theatre and they sent me a letter saying 'thank you, send more things.' But when I sent it to Lion, he called me up personally. That made a difference."

"The cast and director are doing 'Beau' exactly as I saw it when I wrote it. The other play is different. I thought of it as terror. They're doing it as venom."

One of three sons born to Kazan before he married actress-writer-directress, Barbara Loden, the young writer claims that "writing keeps me sane. I get high writing dialogue. I'd be upset if no one was doing my plays. The colleges, will take them but I live here and can learn so much as a dramatist by watching rehearsals."

Another brother Chris, age 32, has just written a film script that his famous father shot in Connecticut. Nick is rewriting one of his own that deals with a perfect murder with a psychological angle.

The four one-act plays on the current bill are linked by themes dealings with alienation in a technological society. The theatre is located at The Steppenwolf, 2136 San Pablo Ave., Berkeley.
